TORIES BOO DECISION

No Election: PM

OTTAWA (CP) — There will not be a general federal election this summer, Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons today.

He said he has reached the conclusion that Parliament should continue to sit to find solutions to the country's problems, he added.

Replying to Progressive-Conservative Leader Joe Clark, Trudeau said it is apparent that the Commons wants to deal with the concerns of the people. Issues could be dealt with in the House or in an election campaign. He had concluded that for now the House is the best place.

The announcement ends speculation that began as early as last fall when it was reported that the prime minister was considering calling a snap vote. He is said to have pondered the idea, then rejected it despite urgings from some advisers and Liberal MPs.

He suddenly began to cool election talk and it was learned that private Liberal polls showed his government might be in trouble with the voters.

An April Gallup Poll, released early last week, showed Liberals and Progressive Conservatives tied with 41 per cent of the decided vote. The New Democrats had 14 and 39 per cent of the voters were undecided.

There were boos from the opposition side of the House, mixed with cheers from the Liberals at the prime minister's announcement.

If Trudeau had announced an election it probably would have been for July 10.

Most observers feel that a deep summer election, one later than July 10 is not probable. Trudeau did not specify but has said before that if he did not call a summer election, the people should look to the fall or next spring.

His majority Liberal government was elected July 8, 1974, and can stay in office until next July.

Elections every four years are traditional, however, and it is considered dangerous for a prime minister to wait the full five years

NEWS BRIEFS

Inquiry Puzzle

CRANBROOK (CP) — A lawyer for the coroner conducting an inquest into the deaths of 43 persons in the Feb. 11 crash of a Pacific Western Airlines jet said Wednesday he could not understand why Transport Canada was not more involved in the inquiry. See story on page 13.

Liberals Ejected

ST. JOHN'S (CP) — A bitter all-night debate in the Newfoundland legislature ended early today with the ejection of 10 Liberals for refusing to withdraw allegations of under-the-table deals between the ruling Progressive Conservatives and private developers. See story on Page 3.

Jumbo Swerves

TORONTO (CP) — A Canadian Pacific 747 on a regular flight to Toronto from Vancouver swerved off the runway at Toronto International Airport after the aircraft brakes seized during landing late Wednesday, officials said. There were no injuries among the 162 passengers and 15 crew members aboard flight 80.

B.C. Rape Relief Centres Urged

By MARK HUME
Times Staff

A comprehensive study of rape in B.C. commissioned by the attorney-general's department will recommend the establishment of a province-wide system of facilities to aid and counsel victims of sexual attack.

Nancy Goldsberry, under contract to the Justice Development Commission, says in the first draft of a 113-page report there should be at least seven centres in the province, with two on Vancouver Island.

In the report, obtained by the Times, Goldsberry says the Coalition of B.C. Rape Centres — which already runs four offices, including one in Victoria — should coordinate the program.

She endorses the Rape Relief Centres as the best way to serve the interests of victims.

Goldsberry says neither the ministries of health nor human resources are designed to respond to rape crisis situations or to provide the necessary extended counselling on a routine basis.

"It is certainly true that specific workers for these departments — public health nurses, social workers — are involved with individual women who have been raped. If there is a Rape Relief service available, though, these governmental staff persons will often . . . refer . . . a victim of rape assault to the rape relief centre . . . .

"If anyone is an expert on rape, it is the Rape Relief worker who, because of sheer volumes of information at hand and practical experience, has the specialized knowledge and skills to assist a victim of the crime."

The report, which has been in the works for several months, was a missing element in recent deliberations at Victoria's City Hall which saw the centre here refused a request for $16,000 in funding.

Mayor Mike Young mentioned on several occasions he felt it would be wrong to support the Victoria Rape Relief Centre until the attorney-general's department had completed a review.

At a meeting of the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee Tuesday, in which the centre was denied funding for a second time, Young said he was still waiting to hear from the A-G's office.

Victoria Ald. Bill McElroy has attacked the provincial government for not taking over the role of the Victoria Rape Relief Centre and other similar operations in B.C.

Time For Tennis

Time is running out!

Time, that is, to get your entry in for the Fifth Annual Victoria Times Public Parks Tennis Tournament.

Entries have been coming in steadily for the popular summer-long tourney designed specially for those who play their tennis not in clubs but on public parks courts in the four Greater Victoria municipalities.

Remember, entry is free and prizes go to winners and runners-up in all five events — men's, women's, boys' and girls' singles, and mixed doubles. Just fill in the entry form on today's sports page and send it or bring it in to the Times.

Entries close at 5 p.m. next Thursday, May 18, so you have exactly one week left to get in on the fun.

Plainclothes Police The Rage in Saanich

If you're pulled over today by a Saanich police car and approached by a gun-toting, unshaven "civilian" — don't panic.

Union policemen in the municipality turned up for work in plainclothes today and decided to ignore recently adopted grooming regulations, such as shaving, to protest the breakdown of negotiations with the police board for a new contract.

Union spokesman Cpl. Phil Jamieson said today the decision to turn up for work in plainclothes and even grow beards — depending on individual taste — was made Wednesday after Mayor Mel Couvelier, chairman of the Saanich police board, told the union all offers made by the board had been withdrawn.

The protest will culminate in a strike vote next Thursday unless the union and police board are able to return to the bargaining table, Jamieson said.

Couvelier, in a strongly-worded letter to the union, threatened policemen with tough disciplinary action if any Police Act rules or regulations are broken in the dispute.

Couvelier said today he has asked the Labor Relations Board to intervene and appoint a special conciliation officer.

The board members were to meet this afternoon to review the situation.

Jamieson, who is president of the B.C. Federation of Peace Officers, said the union's 110-members are completely bewildered by the board's decision to withdraw its offer.

"We feel we've been treated most shabbily and most irresponsibily," he said. "We're united in this. We've had enough."

Negotiations, which have been going on for more than five months, reached an impasse early this month when the board rejected a union request for a cost-of-living adjustment for the first year of a two-year contract which would see wages rise a total of 10 per cent, four in the first year and six in the second.

The board had agreed to the pay raises and also the application of a COLA clause in the second year.

The union wanted the board to make an adjustment in the second year to compensate members if the cost of living raise during the first year of the contract exceeded four per cent.

But to do so would be illegal, Couvelier said, because an Anti-Inflation Board ruling has limited pay raises for the Saanich force to a maximum of four per cent for the year.

Couvelier said he suggested a one-year contract as a way around the problem but the union refused to consider it.

Midnight Ferry Furore

Union representatives met today with officials of the B.C. Ferry Corp. to discuss plans for a new midnight ferry run between Tsawwassen and Swartz Bay.

The meeting comes on the heels of a strongly-worded telegram to the government Wednesday from the B.C. Ferry and Marine Workers Union complaining that the employees were not consulted on the added service.

"We are extremely disturbed over your press announcement concerning midnight sailings of which we were previously unaware," the union said.

The telegram was sent to Recreation and Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf, the minister responsible for the Crown-owned ferry fleet.

"This will involve schedule and manning changes not discussed with the union as required in our collective agreement," said the union.

"Such action does not serve to improve the poor morale and labor relations climate on the ferries, which you have declared an intent to improve."

Union spokesman Peter Blight said today the employees are not considering blocking the midnight service but merely want to let Bawlf know they are unhappy at not being consulted.

Perhaps the minister did it in ignorance, Blight said.

Details of how the added service will fit in with existing manning and scheduling arrangements were discussed at today's meeting.

Bawlf said the ferry corporation will initiate a midnight service to Swartz Bay from Tsawwassen on a trial basis beginning June 30.

Terrifying Shake

MESSINA, Sicily (Reuter) — A powerful earth tremor shook eastern Sicily late Wednesday, driving hundreds of terrified people from their homes into the streets. There were no immediate reports of casualties or serious damage.

Brigade Strikes Again

ROME (UPI) — Terrorists in Milan fired four bullets into the legs of a director of an American bank today in the second Red Brigades-style "kneecapping" in the 24 hours since the discovery of former Premier Aldo Moro's body.

In Rome, police theorized that Moro's kidnappers may have called in "outside killers" to execute the 61-year-old politician and said they were particularly anxious to capture a man known in police circles as "the travelling salesman of death."

"It would take an exceptionally cold-blooded butcher to kill a man with whom you have lived for 55 days," one detective said.

Meanwhile, Moro's widow fulfilled her husband's last, embittered wish — that politicians who "ratified my death sentence . . stay away from my funeral" — and buried him in a private service.

He was buried in a small country village north of Rome. The funeral coincided with the resignation of Interior Minister Francesco Cossiga who took personal blame for the police failure to rescue Moro.

Former prime minister Amintore Fanfani, who dashed to the funeral from Parliament uninvited, was too late for the service and had the gates of the cemetry locked in his face.

Villagers carried the coffin and only her children, his two brothers and his political secretaries were at the graveside.

Tough Line Urged With U.S. Fishermen

Canada should be prepared to take bold, reciprocal action if the U.S. denies West Coast fishermen additional fishing rights as negotiated in a tentative agreement, a union spokesman said today.

Jack Nichol, president of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, said Canada should get tough with Americans fishing in Canadian waters.

In Ottawa, Fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc appeared Wednesday to agree with Nichol.

"We are not willing to forego anything," LeBlanc told reporters questioning him outside the Commons about reports a court case in the U.S. would be dropped if Canada agrees not to expand its salmon trolling in American waters.

A proposed 1978 Canada-U.S. fishing agreement allows B.C. salmon trollers access to more U.S. area. The agreement has yet to be ratified by the U.S. Congress.

On Wednesday, Scott Stafne, a spokesman for the Washington State Trollers Association, told the Senate commerce committee in Washington that his group has agreed to drop the court case that would have ended Canadian trolling activity in U.S. waters after Friday.

However, in exchange for that action, Stafne said he felt he could get sufficient support for disallowing Canadian fishermen into the expanded areas.

Nichol said B.C. fishermen are tired of the U.S. reneging on fishing agreements.

"I think the Canadian government has to be pressured into taking some bold action," he said.

"Otherwise we are just fooling ourselves . . . going through the motions of negotiating treaties that are then wiped out."

Nichol said if the U.S. does refuse Canadians access to the expanded areas then Canada should take reciprocal action.

He suggested U.S. salmon trollers could be prohibited entry into Canadian waters, shrimp draggers could be turfed out of the Tofino grounds or U.S. trawler activity could be curtailed.

Nichol said what is needed is a long-term agreement with the U.S. which corrects the current imbalance which he says favors the U.S. fishermen.

GAS: $2.36 A GALLON

PARIS (UPI) — The price of gasoline in France will go up 10.7 percent on June 1 to $2.36 a gallon, the government announced Wednesday.

The previous price of high-octane gas was $2.12 a gallon.

Gas is now higher in France than in Italy, Belgium, Netherlands, West Germany or Britain.

MEG GIVING TONY FREEDOM TO WED

LONDON (Reuter) — Princess Margaret, sister of Queen Elizabeth, agreed to a divorce because her estranged husband, Lord Snowdon, wants to marry a film production assistant, Lucy Lindsay-Hogg, informed sources said today.

The couple separated two years ago after 16 years of marriage.

Lord Snowdon, 48, met Mrs. Lindsay-Hogg, 33, in London in 1974, but their relationship was kept secret until 1976.

She is the daughter of a wealthy Irish dress designer, and was divorced from film director Michael Lindsay-Hogg in 1971. She now works for a television company.

The princess has been confined to King Edward VII Hospital where she is being treated for suspected gastroenteritis. Doctors' tests showed she is also suffering from mild hepatitis.

The spokesman said the Princess, often criticized by members of parliament for not carrying her load of royal duties, had been advised by doctors not to resume official engagements for "about a month."

B.C. Gov't Goes on Ad Binge

The provincial government will spend $4.6 million more for publications and advertising during the current fiscal year than it did last year, says Lorne Nicolson (NDP—Nelson-Creston).

A list compiled by Nicolson, the opposition recreation and conservation critic, was circulated Tuesday. It shows that the government will spend a total of $12.54 million during the current fiscal year compared with $7.95 million budgeted for the same period in 1977-78 — an increase of 57.7 per cent.

The legislature is currently debating budgetary estimates totalling $4.3 billion — an increase from the $3.8 billion budgeted last year.

Nicolson said the increase in funding for publications and advertising means that the government is either preparing for an election or padding the figures to end the year with a surplus.

The list shows that the government has allocated $1 million for the Captain Cook bicentennial which was not in the 1977-78 budget.

Nicolson said the ministry of the provincial secretary and travel industry will spend $5.2 million compared with $3.5 million budgeted the previous year.

The government's estimates show that the ministry will spend $1.3 million on its quarterly publication Beautiful British Columbia, an increase of $100,000.

A total of $3.8 million has been allocated for tourist promotion, an increase from the $1.9 million budgeted the previous year.

Nicolson said the attorney-general's ministry will spend $434,122, an increase of 422 per cent compared with the $83,100 bugeted last year. Of this amount, $300,000 has been allocated for the Justice Development Commission.

Also showing increases are agriculture, consumer and corporate affairs, education, environment, finance, health, highways and public works, human resources, labor and municipal affairs and housing ministries.

Decreases came in the economic development, forests, mines and petroleum resources and recreation and conservation ministries.

Rabies Flares in Alaska

MOUNTAIN VILLAGE, Alaska (AP) — Health officials have shot 78 dogs and a cat and are giving painful shots to 14 residents of this Eskimo village after a rabid dog bit five persons and came in contact with nine others.

A doctor says it's the largest rabies incident he's seen in Alaska, a state where the disease is still common.

Among those undergoing treatment are 11 children, ages 2 to 11, some of whom may have only hugged the dog. But every day they line up for another in the excruciating 21-day series of anti-rabies shots.

The shots, 23 in all, are given in the abdomen.

"The dog was owned, but it just ran loose," said sanitarian Don Boyce of Bethel. "Most of the children involved are elementary school children."

Animals with current rabies protection will be confined in the village for at least 30 days, state epidomologist Dr. John Middaugh said in Anchorage on Wednesday. That quarantine may be extended after June 1 if further cases develop.

"We've treated over 100 people in the last two years who have been exposed to non-vaccinated dogs," Middaugh said. "It's a terrible problem in Alaska. I think we have the highest rate in the nation of people who need treatment for rabies."

"To all intents and purposes, rabies is 100 per cent fatal without treatment," Middaugh said. "There are three cases of survival in medical history."

The disease generally is carried by wild animals — usually the Arctic or red fox in Alaska, though there have been cases of rabid caribou and other animals.

TAXPAYER CAN KEEP REFUND

OTTAWA (CP) — The revenue department says it will help taxpayers who sold their income tax refund to a rebater to change their minds and get the money for themselves.

A Revenue Canada official said Wednesday that a taxpayer can advise the department that he wants to take back the power-of-attorney signed over to the rebater. In that case, the refund cheque will be sent directly to the individual instead of being sent to the tax rebate service.

Tax rebaters operate by offering instant cash to taxpayers who anticipate refunds, then the rebater submits the return and collects the refund. In many cases, the rebater will pay as little as half the amount of the expected refund.

Last month, Parliament gave speedy passage to legislation aimed at tightening control over income tax refund rebaters. In future, they will be restricted to a profit of no more than 15 per cent on the refund.

Consumer Affairs Minister Warren Allmand called the tax rebate services distasteful, but refused to outlaw it entirely.

part of the bargain in current reciprocal fishing agreements since U.S. fishermen go into B.C. waters for groundfish while B.C. fishermen can take more valuable salmon in U.S. waters.

Nichol disagreed.

"The Americans are getting the better deal. They are taking out far more than we are."

He said B.C. fishermen are not happy with the proposed 1978 fishing agreement. They consider it a sell out, he said.

Special negotiators Marcel Cadieux and Lloyd Cutler were expected to discuss the reciprocal agreement at a meeting in Ottawa today. LeBlanc said Cadieux, Canadian ambassador to the European Economic Community, and Cutler, a Washington lawyer, "will have to take another look at it."

Earlier LeBlanc and Prime Minister Trudeau both warned that banning B.C. salmon trollers from U.S. waters could lead to retaliation.

An external affairs spokesman said that legally the U.S. court injunction cannot take effect for a month or two. The judge stayed the injunction until court appeals are completed and that is likely to take some time, the spokesman said.

PLAINCLOTHES POLICEMEN

The union members, upset over the board's refusal to acknowledge the COLA this year, met May 5 and voted 99 per cent in favor of holding a strike vote, Jamieson said.

"The positions taken by the board have been so confusing and so contradictory we don't know what's going on," Jamieson said.

"All we're asking is to keep up with inflation. We consider the request reasonable."

But Jamieson said money isn't the only issue. The union has asked the board for a study into the supervisory ratio on the force which, he said, has dropped from 33 per cent to about 12 per cent in the past six years.

In addition, Jamieson said the union has been begging the board to set policies, rules and regulations on how the force should be run.

At present, he said, the only regulation the board has drafted is one that sets the length of a policeman's hair and puts a ban on beards.

Couvelier said that officers who don't shave during the protest will clearly violate the Police Act which allows the board to set such regulations. He did not say what disciplinary action would be taken.

On the matter of uniforms, however, there's little the board can do. The Police Act only mentions socks, ties and boots in the list of clothing officers should wear.

Couvelier said the government is now reviewing this section of the act and more detailed listing of the clothing requirements is imminent.

Overruns Denied

The chairman of B.C. Hydro denied Wednesday there were overruns and poor tendering procedures on major Hydro construction projects during the 1960s and 1970s.

Hydro officials appeared before the B.C. legislature's committee on Crown corporations Wednesday to discuss allegations of possible overruns.

"The only application the term overrun would have to a project would be whether the costs, units or material were out of line, and I'm not aware of anything being out of line," Robert Bonner said.

Dollar Tide Turned?

Times News Services

The Canadian dollar continued to rise today against its U.S. counterpart on New York money markets, edging closer to the 90 cent U.S. mark.

At noon the dollar stood at 89.61 cents U.S., its highest level since the end of February.

One senior foreign exchange dealer said the sharp rise means "the tide has turned" for the dollar.

"Each day we've seen an improvement in the dollar . . . Market psychology has definitely changed."

Traders attributed the recent increase in the value of the dollar mainly to commercial demand for the currency.

Soviets Raid Into China

HONG KONG (UPI) — China charged today 18 Soviet boats, about 30 Russian troops and a helicopter crossed the border Wusuli River Tuesday in an "organized military provocation," the official New China News Agency reported.

The troops penetrated nearly 2 ½ miles into China's northeastern Heilungkiang province.

The Chinese government, in a protest note to the Kremlin, denounced the incident as a "serious infringement" of China's territory and demanded an apology from the Soviets. It said a number of Chinese were wounded in the incursion and others briefly abducted.

The agency, quoting the protest note issued by the Chinese Foreign Ministry, said the Russians fired their guns "continually" during the incident and injured an unspecified number of Chinese inhabitants.

They also roughed up 14 other Chinese and abducted them back to the river, the note said. "Under repeated protests of the Chinese inhabitants the Soviet troops finally released them," the note said.

"It was only due to the restraint of the Chinese side that the incident did not develop into an armed conflict," it said.

the weather

A weak frontal disturbance is now crossing the B.C. coast and is passing inland. This weather system is causing precipitation in the form of occasional showers over coastal regions. At the same time over the interior a few showers are reported from several localities. Little change in this pattern is forecast today. There is a risk of a thundershower over the interior this afternoon dissipating this evening. Weather conditions over B.C. will remain unsettled on Friday with another system approaching from the west Friday evening.

The have-I-told-you-lately-that-I-love-you Weekend Special.
No.
No, I haven't, and I should, and I will.
I won't give you a diamond or a mink or a Dior gown. I'll give you me. I'll give you us.
I'll take you for a weekend at the Vancouver Four Seasons Hotel. There will be hundreds of guests and hundreds of people serving us, and we won't see any of them.
We'll eat, and drink, and dance, and wander around Stanley Park.
And we'll shop together, and swim together, and laugh and talk and relax together. And when we drive home, we'll sit closer in the car than when we left.
Weekend Specials, $35.00 per night,* for both of you.
*Minimum 2 nights.

REALLY 'SPECIAL' SAUCE

BOSTON (AP) — McDonald's says there is no evidence a widely used ingredient included in the sauce on its Big Mac hamburgers "is either dangerous or harmful."

A spokesman for the giant hamburger chain responded after a letter from four Canadian doctors published in the New England Journal of Medicine said gum tragacanth, used as a thickening agent in the McDonald's sauce, can cause swelling, itching and shortness of breath in people who are allergic to it.

"In view of the widespread consumption of Big Macs, we wish to alert other physicians to this hidden allergen," the doctors wrote.

Seaside Holiday?

BEIRUT (UPI) — French UN troops have pulled out of their embattled positions north of the guerrilla-controlled port of Tyre in southwest Lebanon, handing over the posts to Senegalese peace-keeping forces.

The French took over Senegalese positions to the east and south of the biblical port town.

Residents said the French also mounted a new outpost near the Mediterranean coast south of Tyre.

"We are in a beautiful spot," quipped a French major. "I think we're going to have a nice seaside vacation."

Western diplomats feared the vacation might not last long and that radical guerrillas might again challenge UN forces if they do not make good on what the Palestinians see as the peace-keepers' main job — ensuring a speedy Israeli withdrawal from the south.

10 Liberals Ousted After Bitter All-Night Debate

ST. JOHN'S (CP) — A bitter, all-night debate in the Newfoundland legislature ended early today with the ejection of 10 Liberals for refusing to withdraw allegations of under-the-table deals between the Progressive Conservatives and private developers.

Three Liberals, including party leader William Rowe, were suspended for three sitting days each on a house vote.

Another seven Liberals were named by Speaker Gerald Ottenheimer, forcing them to leave the chamber just as the marathon session was ending about 3:45 a.m. PDT. The government, however, did not move that they be suspended.

The Conservative majority defeated a Liberal call for an inquiry into the allegations of government corruption on a vote of 24-to-15.

"It had to come to a head and it obviously did this morning," Premier Frank Moores said at an impromptu news conference moments after the sitting ended. He claimed business of the legislature had been paralysed for two weeks by the Liberals "obstructionism."

"The leader of the opposition called me a liar. That's what the debate was all about."

The opposition alleged there had been secret agreements between the government and Craig Dobbin, a local developer, and with Trizec Corp. of Montreal for office building construction and that no public tenders had been called for the projects.

On Tuesday, Rowe tabled a document signed by Moores and dated only with the year 1975 which he said showed there had been an agreement between the government and Dobbin for construction of an office building.

The last provincial election was held in September, 1975.

The new Liberal allegations came just after Moores announced he was suing Andrew Davidson, a former executive of Scrivener Projects Ltd. of Toronto, for defamation and libel.

Davdison signed an affidavit in 1974 alleging that Moores was party to a deal to exchange donations to the Conservative party for contracts to the firm.

The affidavit linked Public Works Minister Tom Farrell to the same allegations. Rowe said Tuesday that Farrell also signed the document alleged to have approved the Dobbin proposal.

Moores has denied everything in the affidavit.

Political Shadows

Luckily for most politicians, the average voter does not have a memory like the proverbial elephant. Politicians' mistakes tend to be one-day wonders, or, at worst, two or three-day wonders; by the time the next election comes around, most voters have quite forgotten the stupid utterances of the candidates months or years before.

On rare occasions, however, a politician commits a blunder so incredible that it does not disappear into the mists of time, but attaches itself to the politician's name so firmly he can no more get rid of it than he can get rid of his shadow on a sunny day. It need hardly be said that the acquisition of such a political shadow is likely to do irreparable harm to a political career.

NDP leader Dave Barrett is one who committed such a gaffe. Even today, four years after the event, there are probably few voters in B.C. who do not remember that Barrett first described a $100 million overrun in spending for the ministry of human resources as a "clerical error."

Education Minister Pat McGeer probably fell into the same trap when, in 1976, on television, he said that those who could not afford the newly doubled automobile insurance rates should sell their cars. It will take an election before it can be discovered how seriously the voters took that remark.

At the local level, the most conspicuous possessor of a shadow is Victoria Ald. Ron McKenzie who, shortly after taking office in 1976, made some comments about the Harlem Globetrotters' affectionate behavior that he may never live down. It appears that McKenzie could now save the city singlehandedly from destruction and disaster — he would still be known as the alderman who made the funny comments about the basketball team.

Now it seems the newest owner of a shadow is Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier. Couvelier, in what could only have been a temporary aberration, made a number of most unlikely comments Tuesday about the neckline of a dress being worn by a woman presenting a brief to the Intermunicipal Committee. The woman was trying to persuade the committee to give some money to the Rape Relief Centre and Couvelier made it plain that one of his major reasons for voting against the group was the woman's dress.

He said he was disturbed by the idea of "some woman in a low-slung blouse" talking to high school students on the topic of rape. Others at the meeting found the mayor's outburst even more perplexing in that none of them had noticed anything at all unusual about the woman's garb.

Just what logic lay behind Couvelier's statements is quite impossible to fathom. Why on earth should the style of dress of an applicant, provided it is not extreme, have any effect on a grant application? It seems that the only implication that can be read into the remarks is the ridiculous old attitude that a woman who dresses in the slightest provocatively more or less deserves it if she gets raped, an attitude that is not worthy of the mayor of a municipality.

However, the final effects of Couvelier's statement may be more serious than just what happens to the Rape Relief application. He cannot help but have lost considerable credibility in the incident; he has acquired a political shadow. He has come across as a man with, at best, poor judgment; at worst, peculiar social attitudes.

At the moment Saanich cannot afford a mayor with a political shadow. It is a municipality struggling back from months of unproductive political conflict into an atmosphere that is a bit more constructive. Couvelier, who had been building up his credibility little by little, deserves much credit for the improvement, but the constructive atmosphere is still very tentative and needs much consolidation.

That is a job for a man who has credibility as a solid political leader in the municipality, not for one who is best known for an odd hang-up about women's clothing. If Couvelier cannot find a way to cut loose from the shadow quickly, the residents of Saanich may all be the losers.

A Worthwhile Gamble?

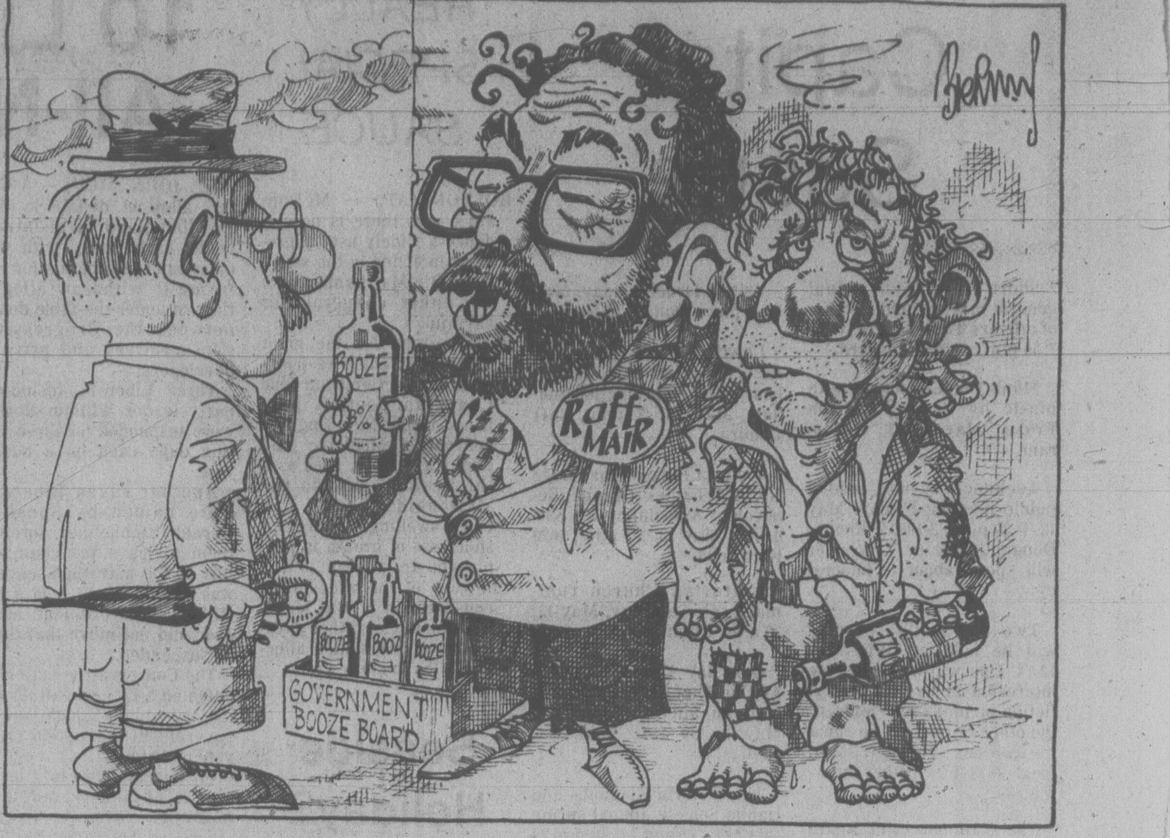
For years residents of Greater Victoria have moaned, grumbled and complained about the lack of a late-night ferry service between Vancouver and Victoria. They have pointed out regularly that it is quite absurd that one cannot go to Vancouver for an evening concert, hockey game or business meeting without incurring the expense and inconvenience of an overnight stay in a hotel. With the last ferry leaving at 10 p.m. at the latest, it's always been necessary for day-visitors to Vancouver to leave for home just as the evening was getting under way.

Residents should cheer, therefore, the latest announcement of Recreation Minister Sam Bawlf that a late-night service will be tried on the Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay run beginning June 30. Every day this summer a ferry will leave the Victorial terminal at 11 p.m. with a return sailing from Tsawwassen at 12:15 a.m. This is a schedule that should enable one to take in just about any event in Vancouver and still make it to that last sailing. (Just how the schedule is going to work hasn't been made clear; some questions arise since it takes a ferry one hour and 40 minutes to sail from one side to the other but only an hour and 15 minutes is allowed according to the schedule.

Once the late-night ferry starts, residents should also make sure they use it when they can. Previous objections to starting a late service have always been that too few people would use it to justify the expenses of running it, expenses which are likely to be high because either extra staff will be needed for it or existing staff will have to be paid overtime.

It really is not reasonable to expect a Crown corporation operating on a fixed subsidy to keep such a service going for only a handful of people and cars each evening. If, however, it becomes a crowded and popular run, Victorians might benefit because the corporation might agree to keep it operating at least some nights during the off-season.

Bawlf and the ferry corporation have agreed to take the first risk by offering the service in the first place. It will be up to Vancouver Island residents, helped along by tourists, to show them the late-night service is a worthwhile gamble.



" . . . I upped the price again . . . so I can help a sick friend of mine. . ."

RICHARD GWYN

National Unity Newspeak

OTTAWA — A new test of Canadian citizenship will be introduced soon, a reliable source advises. Instead of rattling off all that stuff about loyalty to the Queen, aspiring new Canadians will be required, in 1,000 words or less, to distinguish between independence, sovereignty-association, association with sovereignty, and self-government.

That would be Question Number One. The easy one.

Question Number Two would require all those applying to live, free and strong, in the true north, to explain the differences between special status, distinctive status, special arrangements and opting-in-opting-out.

Question Number Three involves two phrases: "Un Quebec independent dans un Canada uni," and "Un Quebec libre dans un Canada uni." Immigrants will be asked to identify the authors and to explain what they meant.

All Too Easy

The questions, I confess, are embarrassingly easy. All Canadians, born or naturalized, would score an A+. Some newcomers, from Mozambique, say, or Sri Lanka, might find a primer useful. Here goes:

Question Number Three: "Un Quebec independent dans un Canada uni" was said by Quebec comedian Yvon Deschamps. Deschamps breaks up his audiences by this self-contradictory explanation of what Quebecers really do want — to have their independence cake but still to eat economically within a united Canada.

Chuckle, chuckle. Quite different is the phrase "Un Quebec libre dans un Canada uni" — a free Quebec in a united Canada. It was uttered recently by Quebec Liberal leader Claude Ryan, a certified Saviour of Confederation who is little given to cracking jokes.

Ryan's Quebec libre is, it does not need to be said, quite different from Charles de Gaulle's "Vive le Quebec libre" that caused all that fuss back in 1967. By his "Quebec libre" de Gaulle means, well, whatever it was he meant to mean. By his "Quebec libre" Ryan meant a Quebec free from, independent from, that is, Ottawa.

Thus Ryan's "Quebec libre" is quite different from Deschamps' "Quebec independent" because, well, Ryan said it.

(Honest, not a word of this is made up).

Question Number Two: To distinguish between special status, distinctive status, special arrangements and opting-in-opting-out is a snap.

Special status is bad because it means Quebec would be different from other provinces. Distinctive status, favored by Ryan and by some provincial premiers, is good because it means Quebec would be different from other provinces. Special arrangements are the best of all because Quebec would be different from other provinces but would not have the word status tagged to its title which might mislead some people into thinking it had special status.

Opting-in-opting-out is one type of special arrangement. It allows Quebec to either alone withdraw from or to alone take part in national programs, like the Canada Pension Plan.

(I promise, not a line of this is invented.)

Question Number One: Independence is what Quebec Premier Rene Levesque used to say he wanted. When English-Canada grew hostile, Levesque explained that what he had meant to say was sovereignty-association, which means independence, with, if possible, an association with Canada. (Actually, even under the independence of the earlier, wild-eyed, separation option, Quebec still wouldn't have floated off into mid-Atlantic.)

English-Canada stayed hostile. Last month, in a speech at Harvard University, Levesque said that what he had really meant to say that he really wanted was association with sovereignty. It means, independence, with, if possible, an association with Canada.

Is It Made Up?

Self-government is Levesque's other, fresh-minted phrase. He means by this a Quebec free to govern itself without interference from Ottawa, as in Quebec libre.

Other answers suggest themselves. Like explain the difference between Trudeau's "federalisme renouvelle" (renewed federalism), Ryan's "Confederation renvouvellee" (renewed Confederation) and Levesque's "une vrai Confederation" (a true Confederation).

Other answers sugest themselves. Like, that maybe everyone is saying the same thing, or that maybe no one is saying anything. My own answer is to guess that, six years ahead of George Orwell's 1984 schedule, we have invented a truly distinct, Canadian, National Unity Newspeak.

Abortion: The Pros, the Cons

This Sunday, Mother's Day, a group of Victoria residents will stage a demonstration against Canada's abortion laws which they think are too lax, another step in the continuing controversy over abortion. Here two letter-writers put forward their views on both sides of the debate.

Right to Life

On Mother's Day, May 14, at 2:30 p.m., concerned citizens will gather at the legislative buildings in the first Right-to-Life rally organized in Victoria. We wish to bring to the attention of our city, our province, and our nation, the tragic fate of unborn babies who are unwanted by their mothers and subsequently killed by abortion.

These same tiny human beings, if "wanted" are granted the same human rights as any other members of our society. However, when marked for abortion, they suddenly become nonpersons and are stripped of even the most fundamental right of all, the right to life.

Althogh the symbolic Walk for Life will proceed to the Victoria General, the wreath laid will be a silent testimony to all unborn babies destroyed by abortion in our Capital District Region since 1969.

The following day, each member of our Capital Regional District hospital board will receive a copy of our 38-page documented brief, Abortion in British Columbia. It is our hope that board members will carefully search their own consciences and will initiate policies in their hospitals to halt life-destroying medical practices.

We wish to point out to the public that Canadian law states tht abortion can only be performed "if the continuation of the pregnancy constitutes a threat to the life or health of the mother." In a few hospitals in our nation, the word "health" is taken seriously. However, it would seem apparent that the word "health" in our area's two major hospitals is literally translated as "any unwanted pregnancy."

Statistics Canada has recently released figures indicating that the number of abortions increased by 10 per cent last year and that 54,536 Canadian women terminated their unborn childrens' lives in 1977. This figure does not include some 4,212 abortions performed on Canadian women in the U.S. last year, bringing the total to 58,690 abortions — or 16.1 per cent of live births. Women between 20 and 34 years old accounted for 60 per cent of the abortions and 31 per cent were married.

According to the Toronto Globe and Mail (Dec. 14, 1977) our abortion rate was nearly as great as that of England and Wales — 16.1 per cent as compared with 17.3 per cent. In Britain, a permissive abortion law, which is virtually abortion-on-demand, has been in effect since 1967. Yet in Canada, which supposedly permits abortion only for serious medical reasons, the rate is almost as high. It stretches one's credulity to the breaking point to believe that the state of health of women in Canada has deteriorated to such an extent that almost 60,000 women were in such terrible danger as to requre abortions in 1977.

EARLIER RALLY
. . . by the other side

Figures recently obtained from our B.C. department of vital statistics record 1,100 abortions in Victoria for 1977 compared to 2,670 live births; that is approximately one abortion for every 2.5 live births.

(It is interesting that Germany, prior to the Second World War, recorded statistics of two abortions for every three live births — a rate rapidly being approached by our own charming city.)

We also wish to point out the consequence of loose abortion laws. Many of these problems were supposed to be erased by permissive abortion practices:

(a) Rate of illegitimacy has doubled in North America in the last decade.

(b) Abortions in North America have risen from some 20,000 per year in the early '70's to over 1.15 million in 1977.

(c) Child battering and infanticide are increasing at an alarming rate — the natural result of the philosophy that undeveloped life is cheap.

(d) Venereal disease has taken on epidemic proportions.

(e) Studies specifying the physical and psychiatric result to women who have had abortions are coming to light.

(f) The economic result of almost an entire generation of children suddenly wiped out by abortion, (unlike the gradual result of responsible family planning), is already being felt in the teaching profession and some consumer industries.

(g) Our disrespect for life has now spread to the defective newborns. Canadian and U.S. press have recently documented the painful 15 to 17- day deaths by dehydration and starvation of scores of "imperfect" newborn babies.

It would seem that instead of eradicating social problems, abortion has become a social problem.

The rally will basically centre on the human rights of the unborn child. The theme will be: freedom of choice stops where the rights of others begin. — Mrs. Arla Rendle, 1971 Lansdowne Road and Mrs. Margot Ney, 4658 Cordova Bay Road, for Victoria Pro-Life Society.

Freedom to Choose

This letter is addressed especially to the people who are planning to take part in the anti-abortion rally which is planned for May 14. Do you realize that you are causing great harm? Have you thought about the difficult position many women are in?

When a woman is faced with the problem of an unwanted pregnancy, she must have the freedom to choose what to do about it. If she decides to continue with the pregnancy then that is her own choice. There is already some assistance available for women who are in difficult circumstances; there needs to be much more.

If, on the other hand, she wishes to terminate the pregnancy, she should be able to do so without having to go through the worries, uncertainties, red tape and extended waiting periods that are part of the present system. Abortion is legal in Canada. However, it is very restricted and not equally available to those who need it. Section 251 of the Criminal Code forbids abortion except when performed in an approved or accredited hospital, after approval by a therapeutic abortion committee of at least three doctors (none of whom may perform the abortion) who certify that continuation of the pregnancy would, or would be likely to endanger the life or health of the woman. This could provide abortions for all who need them but in fact it does not.

The federal government-appointed Committee on the Operation of the Abortion Law (The Badgley Report, February 1977) states that ". . . the procedure provided in the Criminal Code for obtaining therapeutic abortion is in practice illusory for many Canadian women." In B.C. there are many areas where hospitals do not provide abortion services. This creates great financial hardship because of distances that must be travelled. There is also a further complication and difficulty encountered in trying to find a hospital which does not have a residency requirement.

Finding a doctor who will perform the abortion and a hospital which provides this service is only the first problem. The woman is still controlled by the decision made by the therapeutic abortion committee. Some committees are very good and use the World Health Organization definition of health which is: "Health is a complete state of physical, mental and social well-being, and not merely the absence of disease or infirmity." We can be thankful for them. However many committees are very restrictive.

When a woman is refused (and many are) she is in a very difficult predicament: it is late; she may, if she has the money, travel to another country; she may be forced to continue the pregnancy; or she may, in her desperation, get an illegal abortion which can be very dangerous. Many women have suffered and many have died as a result of illegal abortions.

WAITING ROOM
. . . loneliness of abortion

Time is an important factor. Generally it takes six weeks from the beginning of the last menstrual period for pregnancy to be determined. During the first trimester (i.e., the first 12 weeks) the procedure is simple and fairly painless. The methods used at that stage are vacuum aspiration or D&C (sometimes both methods are used). Unfortunately the delays involved often make it necessary for the woman to have the more serious and extremely painful saline injection or prostaglandin injection method. The Badgley Report indicates that on the average it takes eight weeks from the time a woman wanting an abortion first goes to the doctor until the time she has it done. This delay is due to the present system. It should not occur. After the first 20 weeks abortions are rarely performed because after that time they are too hazardous for the woman.

Some people say that abortion is murder. I do not agree.

An embryo is not a human being. Certainly it has the potential to become one, but then so does every human egg (and sperm). Do you think every egg has the right to be born? It has as much consciousness as a 20-week embryo.

I want to make it very clear that I am not advocating late abortions where the fetus has become fully developed and is capable of independent life. I am advocating legal and accessible early abortion. Abortion after 20 weeks is not safe. It should not be necessary.

Abortion is not pleasant. It is not an easy choice for a woman to make. However, given the inadequacy of present birth control methods (the pill, which is the only 100 per cent method, has many bad side effects) it is sometimes a necessity. A woman has the right and the need to be able to choose whether or not she wishes to continue a pregnancy. Deny her that right and you may drive her to great difficulty and desperation. You may even be responsible for her death. — Catherine Mountain, Victoria.

Tenure Blocking Change in Universities

THE GLOBE AND MAIL
An Editorial

Not all the rumors about tenure in our universities are true; few tenured professors hide in their offices and send rabbits to deliver their lectures; even fewer treat students as trespassers in the halls of Academe. But the ones who do can get away with it, because tenure makes their positions practically inviolate. Unless they shoot their dean, they have a job for life.

The problem is that universities face increasingly urgent demands for change, for accommodating the vocational alongside the academic and for offering programs which serve the changing needs of society and the students entering that society.

In a letter to The Globe and Mail, the Commerce Students Association of the University of Toronto complained that the tenure system has "hindered and prevented the relocation of resources within the university." "We find ourselves burdened," they wrote, "with superfluous professors in certain disciplines and chronic shortages in others — most notably in the Commerce and Finance program." The fact that new teachers become eligible each year for tenure in universities across the country merely compounds the problem.

Tenure was originally established to serve two purposes. The first, formulated in a day when accepting a post at a university amounted to taking a vow of poverty, was to supplement a professor's meagre salary with the assurance that his job was at least secure. In the wake of wide faculty unionization and substantial wage increases for professors, that argument no longer carries much weight.

The second purpose was to protect teachers from political interference — to ensure their freedom to espouse and exchange controversial ideas. Tenure, it was felt, would protect a radical professor from the wrath of more conservative superiors, and a conservative teacher from the jaws of radical superiors. The problem is that if a professor's views are so unpopular that they polarize department members against him he stands little chance of being granted tenure in the first place; the board reviewing his application could simply recommend his dismissal on grounds which made no mention of politics. If he publishes extensively, the board can fault his teaching; if he teaches superbly, it can attack his publishing record.

This is not to imply that professors require no protection from political persecution and need no system of seniority; it is to suggest that tenure as it stands is respectively ineffective and inefficient. It is an anachronistic measure which has lost whatever real value it once held, and which risks inhibiting the universities from reorganizing to meet new responsibilities. If the problem is not dealt with, those institutions will find themselves trying to shape new educational models with clay that has already hardened.

Ryan's Opponents Are Playing Rough

By WILLIAM JOHNSON

QUEBEC — Bryce Mackasey received a warm sendoff when he resigned the other day from the National Assembly. For Claude Ryan, though, political opponents seem to be planning a hot reception.

There was widespread relief at Mackasey's decision to call it quits after a year and a half. The man from Verdun was out of his depth in Quebec. His posturing, which fooled the gallery in the more impersonal atmosphere of the federal capital, was simply embarrassing in the smaller, more intimate circumstances of the Old Capital.

A man whose chief talent has always been self-dramatization, Mackasey wandered around Quebec telling people of his past importance and yearning for Ottawa. He tried to play the role of the voice of English-speaking Quebec. But he had neither the understanding of Quebec as it is today nor the eloquence — without the high-priced speechwriters who were on his staff in Ottawa — to articulate the needs and the yearnings of that population so sadly in need of an authentic voice. He was soon simply ignored here and found he was taken much more seriously when he went lecturing in the rest of the country, as he will no doubt do from now on.

The definitive assessment of Mackasey's Quebec sojourn was made by Irwin Block of The Montreal Star:

"He was not able to bridge the cultural, language and political gap between the two communities . . . Mr. Mackasey was not up to the task."

Claude Ryan can expect to be met in Quebec City by his opponents wearing brass knuckles, as Premier Rene Levesque made clear at a press conference:

"In the rather impressive majority that elected him it was evident for anyone not wearing distorting glasses that two factors played a very large part; the block vote of anglophone delegates and the presence and the manipulations of the federal bosses of the provincial section of the Liberal Party."

Strange that Ryan won the Liberal leadership with 68 per cent of the vote, and that the anglophone vote was divided as much as was the convention vote.

If anything, the anglophones held off from committing themselves until the Ryan bandwagon was well under way. Many hoped Finance Minister Jean Chretien would enter the leadership race. There was no block vote.

The federal participation, unlike the case at other conventions, was exceedingly non-committal. Few federal MPs took sides publicly. They had no appreciable influence in the outcome.

Levesque knew that he spoke nonsense, and all the reporters listening to him knew he spoke nonsense. But no matter. Most of Quebec's population is not able to assess the premier's words at their true value. Many will believe the insinuation that Ryan is the creature of the English-speaking people of Quebec and of the federal Liberals.

. . . whispers

Since the insinuations are false, it's interesting to wonder why they are made. Levesque knows what he is about. There was a time when it paid off politically to whisper that a politician was the candidate of the Jews. Now, in Quebec, Levesque finds that it pays to make people believe that Ryan is the candidate of the anglophones. Call it demagogy.

'Tumor-mouse' Tests Genetic Diseases

By NIGEL HAWKES

A mouse with a curious parentage is growing up in an Oxford laboratory. Instead of the usual two parents, this mouse has three — or maybe four. Remarkably, one parent is a tumor.

It was produced by one of the new techniques of biology which are revolutionizing the study of genetics, exciting many scientists and perhaps alarming a few. It is a mouse assembled by man outside the womb and then reimplanted into another mouse, a surrogate mother, to bring to term and deliver.

Early death

As well as demonstrating the growing skills of biologists at manipulating life, the tumor-mouse is designed to provide a test-bed for the study of a human disease, the Lesch-Nyhan syndrome. This is a condition determined by the genes; it produces severe mental handicaps, bizarre behavioral patterns including compulsive eating of the fingers, and death, usually before age of 20.

The mouse was produced by Dr. David Martin, an American scientist spending a year at Oxford at the Sir William Dunn School of Pathology. He used techniques developed at Oxford and in Philadelphia and at his own laboratory in San Francisco to produce the tumor-mouse.

(Dr. Martin's own brother died of Lesch-Nyhan at the age of 27, the longest survival on record. In answer to the obvious question, Dr. Martin says that it wasn't his brother's death which drove him to study Lesch-Nyhan; he was already working as a scientist when the diagnosis was made by his father, a pediatrician. But the family connection can hardly have failed to add a little extra motivation to the search.)

Martin started by taking from the womb of a pregnant mouse a three-and-a-half day old embryo, called a blastocyst at this stage of its development. The blastocyst, a tiny speck about the diameter of a human hair and visible only under a microscope, was kept alive in a "soup" of chemicals which supplied its needs.

Then it was placed, inside a droplet of the soup, under a second microscope equipped with operating instruments of the greatest delicacy. A hole was opened in the protective wall which surrounds it and into the blastocyst itself a few cells from a mouse tumor were injected.

The blastocyst then sealed itself up again with the cancer cells inside. Finally it was reinserted into the womb of a pseudopregnant mouse — that is, a mouse which had been persuaded, falsely, that it was pregnant by mating it with a sterilized male. Since the female mouse believed itself to be pregnant, its womb was ready for the foreign blastocyst, accepted it and brought it to full term before giving birth to it.

The result was a mouse with two normal mouse parents, but whose genetic make-up also showed that the cancer cells had been incorporated into its organs. If one allows the surrogate mother a share of the credit, the mouse had four parents — three mice and one tumor.

Not the least remarkable thing about the mouse which was born from this strange union was that it did not develop tumors. To all appearances it is normal, with only a few flecks of white in its dark coat to indicate its mixed parentage. The fact that it did not develop tumors within a few weeks of birth surprised at least one eminent Oxford biologist who had predicted confidently that it would.

But the purpose of the exercise was not to study cancer, but to provide an animal which could be used to model human genetic disease. Many diseases, probably far more than is presently realized, originate from defects in the genes which provide the pattern for the development of an individual. If the pattern is flawed, the individual will be flawed too.

Only in boys

In some cases, it is known exactly what genetic effect causes what condition. In the case of the Lesch-Nyhan syndrome, what is missing in the cells of the affected individual is an enzyme — a biological catalyst — called hypoxanthine phosphoribosytransferase (HPRT). The absence of HPRT affects the activity of the cells and produces the extraordinary symptoms of Lesch-Nyhan.

Although women can be carriers of the deficient gene, it is only expressed in boys. Apparently normal at birth, affected babies show their first symptoms at a few months of age. Their mental development is retarded and by the age of two to three years they have begun compulsively biting their fingers and lips. This is no mere nail-biting; unless restrained an affected child will literally chew himself to pieces with horrible results. Often sufferers have to have splints put on their elbows so they cannot put their hands to their mouths.

Affected children spend their short and blighted lives in institutions. It is not a particularly rare condition; some experts believe that as many as 3 per cent of the male patients in institutions for the mentally retarded suffer from Lesch-Nyhan.

To understand the condition better and to test theories of how it might be detected earlier — and treated — calls for an animal system which can mimic the human disease. Since it is known exactly what genetic defect causes the disease it might be thought possible to introduce the defect directly into the sperm or the egg of a species like the mouse and thereby produce a Lesch-Nyhan mouse population.

But sperm or eggs do not, in fact, take kindly to such attempts. What can be done, however, is to introduce the defect into the mouse cancer cells and then use them, like a Trojan Horse, to carry the defect into the mouse blastocyst.

This is done in two stages. You start with a few million tumor cells in a test-tube and add a powerful chemical which is known to cause genetic mutations. The effect is like a shotgun being fired at the cells to produce a random pattern of damage.

Some cells will escape damage altogether, some will be totally destroyed, a few, a very few, will suffer precisely the right amount of damage to emerge as cells deficient in exactly the same way as the Lesch-Nyhan patients' cells.

The next stage is to pick out of the mixture only those cells damaged in exactly the right way. A chemical is chosen which can be converted by the undamaged cells into a poison. When this is added to the mixture the vast majority of the cells duly convert it into a poison and kill themselves. But the few cells with the characteristic damage of Lesch-Nyhan lack the ability to convert the chemical and therefore survive.

New chapter

These cells are extracted from the mixture and cultured to produce a large population of cells with the right genetic defect. The damaged cells are then introduced into the mouse blastocyst to produce a tumor-mouse — many of whose cells derive from the tumor — and therefore have the Lesch-Nyhan defect.

There remains only one step; to breed the tumor mice together and produce a second generation. Among this second generation would be individuals the whole of whose genetic complement would come from the tumor cells. If they were males, they would be the exact analogue of a Lesch-Nyhan baby, doomed to an early death by the flawed pattern of their genes.

So far David Martin has produced 30 individual tumor-mice at Oxford, but the oldest, a female, is only two-and-a-half months old and the breeding program has not yet started. The crucial question is yet to be answered: Will the animals breed successfully and will they produce among their litters male mice who will begin to nibble at their paws? If they do, they will have opened a new chapter in the study of genetic diseases.

Snoring: It's Not Funny

katharine whitehorn

LONDON — Do rabbits snore? This is not the silly question it seems, since much sleep research has been done on that substance in the brains of animals that causes them to fall asleep, and it's mainly rabbits that they use. What causes the rabbits' bedmates, or us, to stay awake, though, is something to which no one has paid much attention until last week, when a British Member of Parliament, Robert Adley, thought to ask what the nation was doing about research into the all-important topic of snoring.

Thank heaven someone is taking the problem seriously at last. Snoring is one of those awful things, like having measles when you're grown up or breaking three ribs in a bar, which is made worse because everyone thinks it's funny. Ho ho, they say, try sleeping in different towns, try putting soap in his open mouth (guess how much that does for a marriage?) Try tying a hedgehog in the back of his pyjamas so he can't roll over and start that ghastly haarnk - pss - haarnk - psss again.

Those who don't treat it as a joke are even worse: because they treat it as psychological. A couple of summers ago, when my husband had a month of really high-decibel snoring, I tried to research the subject; and I got nowhere at all, because every single expert I approached said, "Ah, a psychosexual problem" and started asking questions about my sex life.

Replying testily that the sex life was fine but only happened when he was awake, and that it was what happened when he was asleep that I minded, I was greeted with the tolerant, pitying smile reserved for those who assure their doctor that they know they are Napoleon, because God told them so.

Psychosexual problems, we are told, are as common as chicken pox; but with this lamentable difference: that you can't just say you had it as a child and go on to talk about something else. The medical profession increasingly writes off anything they can't cure as psychosomatic: it is their blanket get-out for anything that baffles them.

In the Middle Ages whatever was wrong with you was put down to bad morals; in the 19th century it was bad hygiene that was blamed, and by the twenties it was bad internal hygiene — i.e. constipation. Every society needs some bogy to blame for the things it can't explain, and in ours it's psychology; but why does it apply so neatly to anything the medics can't cure, and never to anything they think they can — especially if you've got insurance?

Sleep, they will research; there is a team in Edinburgh that's been counting the Rapid Eye Movements of cats for years on end; but they are uninterested in the Rapid Leg Movements of those who are trying to get the party of the second part to wake up, turn over, shut their mouths and stop making that noise.

Why, it's a way of avoiding sex, they say — "I-can't-stand-it-any-longer I'm going to sleep on the couch"; or it's his way of getting back at you: "Never lets me get a word in edgeways, by God, I'll make her listen when I'm asleep". And, indeed, it is a sinister and indicative fact that no one ever suffers from snoring unless they have a partner! Well, of course they don't because there's no one there to complain: snoring is a social disease that only afflicts anyone when it's passed on.

One simple comparison I often use to bring the psychosomatic bogy to heel, and that's to apply it to cars. What, I ask myself as the oil oozes out from an unmentionable part, is worrying it now? Was it something I said that caused this funny knocking noise under the bonnet? But for snoring there's an even better comparison.

Suppose you have an old, smelly and enormous bulldog lying on the hearthrug making sounds like a concrete mixer. You might say it was heredity — all bulldogs have funny noses; you might say it was something it ate; you might say it ought to be put down — a suggestion not often recommended for husbands, though there was always Harry Graham's rhyme:

"Late last night I slew my wife,
Stretched her on the parquet flooring,
I was loath to take her life,
But I had to stop her snoring."

But at least, as you drag the damned animal into the kitchen so that you can hear the stereo above its thunderous whufflings, no one suggests you have a psychosexual problem with the animal. No, they don't — not even in New York.

An Utterly Feminine Ring
at $395.

What a beautiful Ring!

This is a dreamy, love-at-first-sight ring!
A discreet cluster of Birks diamonds, sparkling in a classic setting of 14kt. yellow or white gold . . . creating a ring that is stunning yet delicate . . . that has flash without flamboyance.
A ring that's as feminine as the smile of a woman in love.

What a Beautiful Price!

We bought the diamonds in this ring last year at what were then very good prices — thanks to our buying power. In fact, the ring would be excellent value even at last year's prices.
But since then, world diamond prices have gone up very substantially — making this ring now an even more fantastic value!
Very white diamonds, well cut and of above average quality, set in a lovely gold mounting. And at $395. far below its present market value!

Mass Defence Of Bennett

Social Credit members came to the defence of Premier Bill Bennett en masse Wednesday — the eighth day of legislative debate on his budgetary estimates.

During the first seven days, the NDP opposition accused Bennett of incompetence and running away from the problems of the people of B.C.

This culminated in a motion of non-confidence to try to reduce his salary to $3.

Cabinet minister after cabinet minister and back-bencher after back-bencher rose Wednesday to defend the premier, who spent most of the day out of the legislature.

Each said the motion was frivolous and silly and listed the various public works projects under way in their ridings as examples of progress made under Bennett's leadership.

Recreation Minister Sam Bawlf said the motion was frivolous, and Finance Minister Evan Wolfe said the reduction in salary was substantial and that unlike most cost reduction proposals he would oppose this one.

Education Minister Pat McGeer said the real issue involved in the debate was not one of confidence in the premier but one of the NDP's competence.

"What you're doing is wasting the taxpayers' money," McGeer said, adding it costs $60,000 a day to run the legislature.

"If you're not responsible in opposition then under no circumstances are you ever competent enough to take over the leadership of the province."

Gary Lauk (NDP—Vancouver Centre) asked McGeer why, if the motion was so ridiculous, so many cabinet ministers and back-benchers had attempted to defend Bennett.

Attorney-General Garde Gardom turned the tables on the opposition as well, calling them a once-proud, fractured and falling-apart party.

He said the NDP had subjected Bennett to the grossest amount of personal invective and attack that anyone has ever experienced in the house.

Opposition Overlooked?

Liberal leader Gordon Gibson complained Wednesday that unlike government members, opposition MLAs never get any credit for new government projects in their constituency.

Gibson rose in the legislature during question period and, holding a handfull of news releases, said that when the government announces a new project the release almost always carries the name of the Social Credit members whose riding is involved. He said no credit ever goes to an opposition member if the project is in his riding.

He asked Premier Bill Bennett if he could ensure that opposition MLAs could begin getting credit, but the premier gave no commitment.

BCR DENIES TRANSFER LAYOFFS

NDP MLA Gary Lauk charged Wednesday that at least 40 B.C. Railway engineers and trainmen have been laid off recently because the railway has been transferring some of its traffic to the Canadian National Railways.

However, a spokesman for the government-owned railway denied that such transfers have been taking place.

Lauk, the member for Vancouver-Centre, told reporters after raising the matter in the legislature that up to two trains of 100 cars each a day carrying wood chips and packaged timber for Vancouver from Prince George have been transferred onto the CNR and shipped south via Jasper and the Red Pass junction.

He said he didn't know the reason for the transfer, but it could be due either to a shortage of freight cars or mismanagement.

The layoffs involve 23 engineers and dozens of trainmen during the past six months, Lauk said.

BCR spokesman Hugh Armstrong said in a telephone interview from Vancouver later that he had no knowledge of the situation Lauk described.

Armstrong said Prince George is a major interchange and large amounts of goods bound for eastern Canada and the U.S. are often transferred to the CNR at the central B.C. city, but goods bound for Vancouver are not shifted onto the CNR.

How Your Garden Grows

Successful flower gardening

A flower garden can add lush beauty to a yard through much of the year. There are two types of herbaceous flowering plants:

Annuals. Grown from seed, they flower and die in one year.

Perennials. May be grown from seed, bulbs, cuttings or by division. These continue to grow and bloom for several seasons.

Most flowering plants like a sunny location in well drained, loose-textured soil. They also prefer soil which is neutral in reaction. Because acid conditions prevail in this area, an application of Green Valley Dolomite Lime is recommended to correct this condition.

Ample amounts of phosphorous and potash are needed for good flower production. Green Valley Flower & Vegetable 4-10-10 is an ideal fertilizer analysis to meet this requirement.

When bedding plants are first set out, they should be watered frequently and protected from direct sun and cool winds until well established. An application of Green Valley Plant Starter will help to prevent transplant shock and subsequent setback.

Houses Improper

Agriculture Minister Jim Hewitt confirmed Wednesday that former Social Credit Party president George Dreidiger has two houses improperly located on agricultural land in Langley.

Hewitt told the legislature, however, that a directive has been issued by the Agricultural Land Commission to Dreidiger ordering him to correct the situation.

He explained that in addition to the two houses, Dreidiger also has two more older houses located legally on the property. One of the old houses will be demolished and its place will be taken by one of the newer ones, the minister said. The second new house will be removed by June 1, he said.

Hewitt said the commission owns the 243 acres and Dreidiger's decision to move the two new houses onto the land had been contrary to his lease.

McCLELLAND LAUDS SERVANTS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Health Minister Bob McClelland refused Wednesday to defend his own record but praised civil servants in his ministry for being more dedicated and efficient than many workers in private industry.

Ron Longstaffe, chairman of St. Paul's Hospital board, said Tuesday that McClelland passes problems referred to him back to the bureaucrats and also criticised the ministry's bureaucrats for delays and hindrance.

Fewer Passengers Buckle Up in B.C.

The use of seat belts has increased in B.C. — but the increase is among drivers and not the passengers, a recent survey shows.

R.G. Whitlock, supervisor of motor vehicles, said while there has been a decrease in usage by front-seat passengers, their usage rate is still substantially higher than prior to legislation.

The survey, made public Wednesday, was prepared for the energy, transport and communications ministry by Western Analysis Ltd. in Vancouver during one week in March.

The study shows that 73 per cent of the drivers in Vancouver are buckling up, the same percentage recorded in November. In the Victoria area, the number increased by five percentage points to 77 per cent.

The survey shows that incidents of passengers wearing seat belts in the Vancouver area dropped to 53 per cent from 65 per cent while in Victoria there was a two percentage point increase to 74 per cent.

FEDERAL SOCRED SUPPORTED

Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm says he supports the policies of Lorne Reznowski, the new federal Social Credit Party leader.

Premier Bill Bennett and other members of the provincial cabinet have dissociated themselves from the federal party but Vander Zalm said in an interview he backs Reznowski's aim to rid the country of abortionists, homosexuals and unscrupulous bankers.

"I don't disagree with those particular attitudes," he said. "I have to concur with the majority of things that he said and I don't disagree with his philosophy."

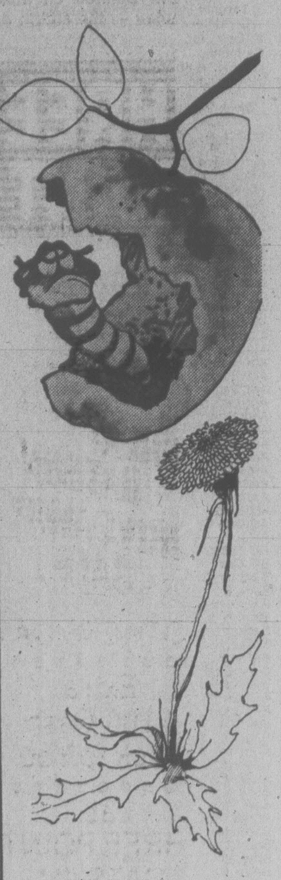
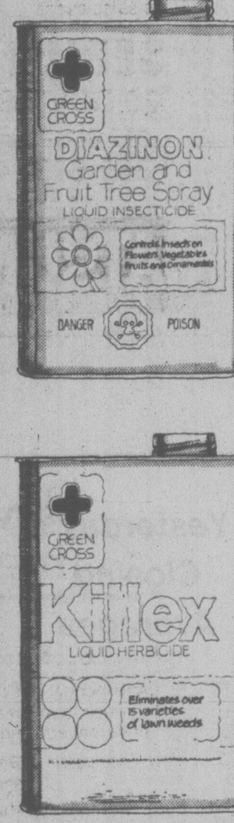
What have we got against bugs and weeds?





We've got Diazinon Garden and Fruit Tree Spray for all those little devils that like to dine out on your flowers, vegetables, fruits and ornamentals. And we've got Killex–nothing kills more kinds of weeds in your lawn. And that's just for starters. There's Crabgrass Killer, Vegetation Killer, and Deritox too! These are just five of close to forty Green Cross hardworkers to help keep your garden and lawn looking and feeling better.
GREEN CROSS
Makes growing things a pleasure.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Advancing prices at New York sent the Toronto stock market moderately higher in active mid-afternoon trading.

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. totalled 2.82 million shares, up from 2.77 million at the same time Wednesday.

Advances outnumbered declines 223 to 140 with 232 issues unchanged.

A trading halt continued in shares of Lost River Mining Corp. Ltd., which last traded at 31 cents a share. The company has filed under the United States Bankruptcy Act.

Westeel-Rosco Ltd. shares were untraded following its resumption at the opening after company directors decided to remain neutral on the Jannock Ltd. takeover bid for all shares at $21¾ a share.

Westeel-Rosco last traded at $21⅞ a share.

Among other industrials, Livingston Industries gained 2 to $27, Nowsco Well Service 1½ to $34½, Crown Life Insurance 1½ to $52½, Price Co. ¾ to $13¾ and Walker-Gooderham A ⅜ to $32⅞.

Cyprus Anvil Mining rose ⅝ to $8, Dome Mines ½ to $81½ and Lacana Mining ⅜ to $7⅝. Canray Resources fell two cents to $1.70 and Dynamar Energy three cents to $1.42.

Ranger Oil Canada climbed 1⅜ to $34⅞, Ocelot Industries A ¾ to $11½ and Ocelot Industries B ¾ to $11¼. Ram Petroleums slipped ⅞ to $12 and Chieftain Development ½ to $18.

Carling O'Keefe five cents at $4.30. Among speculative issues, Stanford Mines A advanced nine cents to 49 cents on a volume of 18,000 shares traded.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were slightly higher in moderate trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange. Hudson's Bay Co. gained ⅛ at $19⅜, FCA International three cents at $2.90, CP Ltd. ⅛ at $18¼, Bank of Nova Scotia ⅛ at $20¼ and Inco A ⅛ at $18½. Consumers Gas lost ⅛ at $17¼, Westcoast Petroleum ⅛ at $10½ and

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market posted a healthy increase today, with traders shrugging off a hike in the Federal Reserve Board's discount rate and worry over release of the latest money supply statistics.

Analysts said there was little negative reaction to an announcement Thursday that the Federal Reserve Board had increased its discount rate to seven per cent from 6½ per cent. The move, amid increases in other short-term interest rates, was expected.

In addition, there appeared to be little concern over the release later today of the money supply statistics. The nation's money supply had been on the upswing lately and that—along with higher interest rates—often depresses the market.

But analysts said traders appeared encouraged by a two per cent increase in April's retail sales and reports that the dollar was gaining strength in overseas foreign exchanges.

Boeing, up sharply in recent sessions after receiving a large purchase order, was down ¾ to $48¾. Ramada Inn, involved in several large block trades, was the most heavily traded NYSE stock, up ½ to $6¼.

London

LONDON (CP) — Prices rose sharply near the close of light trading on the London stock market. The Financial Times index was up 5.8 to 480.8 an hour before the close. Leading industrials and oil issues gained, while gold stocks hardened in line with higher bullion prices. Canadian shares eased.

Hy's of Canada

Hy's of Canada Ltd. has reported net earnings of $58,000, or seven cents a share, for the three months ending Dec. 31, compared with earnings of $89,000, or 11 cents a share, for the same period in 1976.

Sales for the restaurant chain increased to $4,985,000, compared with $4,607,000 for the same period the year before.

Goodyear Cda.

Goodyear Canada Inc. has announced consolidated net sales in the first three months of this year of more than $81 million, down almost $4.1 million or 4.8 per cent from $85.108 million in 1977.

J. Robert Hicks, president and chief executive officer, said consolidated net income totalled $480,000, an 82.4-per-cent decline from the $2.32 million earned in 1977.

Hicks attributed the first-quarter decline to strong competition in a depressed tire market, below-capacity plant operation and higher costs of imported raw materials.

However, he said better weather conditions and rising car sales, expected to continue throughout the second quarter, have resulted in an encouraging increase in sales and profits.

Stelco

Higher demand for steel enabled Steel Co. of Canada Ltd. to report increased earnings for the first quarter of $25,078,000 or 91 cents a share compared with restated profits of $22,075,000 or 89 cents a share for the same quarter in 1977.

The 1977 figures have been restated to reflect changes in corporate income tax in the March, 1977, federal budget and not enacted until last December.

KER PRIESTMAN ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. Allan Ker, President of Ker, Priestman & Associates Ltd., of Victoria, B.C., and Mr. Ian Ross, President of Swan Wooster Engineering Co. Ltd. of Vancouver, B.C., are pleased to announce the establishment of a closer association of the two firms with Swan Wooster's purchase of an equity position in Ker Priestman.

The new association will not result in any change in personnel nor a reduction in the scope of consulting services historically provided by the two firms. It is expected that the complementary services offered will allow both firms to expand their respective services.

Ker Priestman provides consulting services in the fields of water supply, irrigation, flood control, storage dams, sewerage systems, bridges and urban and regional planning.

Swan Wooster provides consulting services in the fields of commodity transportation planning and system economics, ports, marine terminals, bulk materials handling, industrial plants, bridges, railways, water supply and sewerage systems.

Rape Relief Centres Urged

McElroy said a counselling facility for the victims of rape attacks is clearly a provincial responsibility.

He said the government's tactic of providing partial funding, through the attorney-general's department, is totally inadequate.

"This forces volunteer agencies to spring up where they're needed. They use untrained people and then the government turns around and slams them for having non-professional bookkeeping."

Rape Relief has been criticized a number of times for its lack of accountability.

"It's the nature of such volunteer organizations to be understaffed and overworked — then the (government) department comes down on them because they're inefficient," McElroy said.

Goldsberry suggests in some detail in her report what bookkeeping changes should be made in the existing Rape Relief network of offices.

A draft of the report shows that the Victoria centre and others in the province are fully endorsed by the researcher.

Goldsberry once worked at the Victoria Rape Relief Centre.

The report, which will undoubtedly undergo some changes before the final draft is completed by June 1, says the Victoria centre should have its staff doubled, to four full-time members.

Besides Victoria, Rape Relief offices already exist in Nanaimo, Vancouver and Kamloops.

Goldsberry says these centres should remain, but new co-ordinating depots should be opened in Nelson, Prince George and Terrace.

"The Coalition of B.C. Rape Centres would be a natural co-ordinating body for this expanded Rape Relief Program," writes Goldsberry.

The research paper does not make specific recommendations as to the funding sources for the program, but does say the department of education should be involved and that contracts longer than one year should be awarded.

Goldsberry says the education ministry should be involved because centre staff spend considerable time in schools lecturing and providing counselling.

She also indicates that local and federal levels of government should play some role in funding.

Palm Springs, But Played Cool

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Jack Lacterman says Victoria should become more like Palm Springs, only without the heat — it's unbearable in the summer.

Lacterman arrived on the weekend after five months in his mobile home down there.

"I had to come home," said the Victoria businessman. "It was just too hot. We spent all day sitting under the air conditioning. The swimming pool was impossible. The water was 85 degrees."

There is a message in all this, Lacterman said.

"I've been working all my life and even when I'm on vacation I keep working. Look, the trailer court we live in down there is empty now. Everyone's gone to the coast, except for a few people who can't afford to get out.

"This is a tremendous opportunity for Victoria, a great untapped market.

"They haven't even heard of Victoria down in Palm Springs. Where is all our promotion? There are thousands of people looking for some cool place to go for four months of the year.

"There's a big market in California and in Arizona, too. There are six million people in Los Angeles alone looking for a place to cool off."

Lacterman said Victoria's economic problems could be solved by a gigantic fly-in promotion aimed only at the western sunbelt area from San Diego to Arizona.

"The potential is tremendous. I've put together several reports on this and I've passed them along to the provincial government.

"People fly from Victoria to Hawaii or to Palm Springs on two-week packages. We should be able to reverse the flow and get two-week fly-in packages into the Victoria area.

"Palm Springs is Victoria's sister city. Know what the population is? Only 32,000. That's in the summer. In the winter it's more like 132,000. They did a census and found they've only got 32,000 people in the summer. Everyone's gone someplace else."

Lacterman said Victorians should get used to the idea the city will never become an industrial centre.

"All we have is the tourist industry and government."

And of the two, he said, he would rather see growth in the tourist industry.

"I know the provincial government and the Visitors Information Centre is actively promoting Vancouver Island in the Seattle area. But what's the point? Victoria is too much like Seattle, at least as far as climate is concerned. When people go on holiday they want to see something different. Our great opportunity is the California market and Arizona.

"We don't need anything else. If people started flying in from there we would have more tourists than we could handle. The market is tremendous.

"You know, the Los Angeles papers put out these huge travel supplements every week and there's never any mention of Victoria. Not a word!"

Lacterman said Provincial Secretary Grace McCarthy and Recreation and Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf have expressed interest in his views but this interest has not been translated into action.

Lacterman came home with a number of other ideas from his vacation in Palm Springs.

"I like the way they have everything co-ordinated under one roof down there. We should do the same thing here. Everything should be co-ordinated under the Chamber of Commerce."

Lacterman said he would like to see the end of the Downtown Victoria Business Association, of which he is president, along with the demise of the Victorian Celebrations Society, of which he is a director.

"All those things should be done by the chamber. It is no wonder the separate organizations never have a budget to do any effective promotions. Everything is so fragmented."

Even the Visitors Information Centre should become part of the chamber, Lacterman said.

"Now is the time to do it because there is talk of making offices available on the Inner Harbor. We could all move in together and form one organization — like they do in Palm Springs, like they do in Portland."

(Bawlf has indicated the site of the former service station at Wharf and Government could be made available to a number of organizations. The Causeway tourist bureau building will be demolished and its functions will move to the service station site.)

Lacternman said Victoria chamber president John Ansell has expressed an interest in merging all organizations under the chamber.

Lacterman said that, while Victoria will not become another Hamilton, there is an opportunity for a bit more commercial and industrial expansion.

In Palm Springs, for example, the city has a separate fund to aid development.

"It works just like our downtown parking commission. Here we put all the income from parking into a special fund to provide additional parking. It's like that in Palm Springs only they apply it to all industries.

"The city will buy industrial land, put in the services and sell it at cost to developers. This results in an increase in tax revenues and this money is put into a special fund to buy up more land. The expansion goes on and on.

"As a matter of fact the commercial and industrial growth in Palm Springs is up 263 per cent in a single year. It is so strong they have put a moratorium on it for a few months so they can catch up with the sewer construction and other services."

There is the problem of Victoria costs. Raw land sells at $1,000 an acre in the Palm Springs area, compared with about $30,000 here. Prime building lots are $7,000 or $8,000 tops in Palm Springs. In Victoria lot prices are $30,000.

"There should be an investigation. Somebody's making a lot of money here."

Part of the problem, he said, is the agricultural land freeze.

"They've frozen a lot of rock piles and called it agricultural land. We have to make more land available if we are going to keep costs down."

REMARKS 'INCREDIBLE'

Women Sound Off Against Mayor Mel

A spokesman for the Status of Women Action Group (SWAG) today rebuked Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier for his comments criticizing the dress of a member of the Victoria Rape Relief Centre.

SWAG president Shirley Nordstrom said she was shocked and angered that Couvelier would vote against awarding a grant to the Rape Relief Centre because he claimed one of its representatives was wearing a low-cut blouse when she appeared before the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee Tuesday.

"It's quite incredible," said Nordstrom.

"First of all, it is inexcusable to me that an elected official can publicly be so rude to a community volunteer worker. And it makes me wonder what the real issue is, that he would take up a red herring like clothing.

"It is also very sad to think that a man in his position judges people by their clothing. The women of Saanich and Victoria deserve better."

Norrie Preston, a former SWAG president, said she was incensed by Couvelier's attitude, adding that it makes as much sense for her to say she distrusts him "because he wears loose pants."

"It's the old view that women deserve to be raped because they're provocative," Preston said.

"It's the old myth, and it absolutely ignores the excellent work Rape Relief does in the community; the fact that they take their job seriously and do it in a professional manner."

Joan Curry, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, said the Saanich mayor appeared to have acted in an emotional, rather than a logical way.

"I was personally amazed at his comments."

She said it's likely that the question of a formal complaint will be brought up at the club's meeting next week.

SIX TENDERS UNDER ESTIMATE

Six bids submitted Wednesday for a Northridge elementary school project all came in under the Greater Victoria's school board's allocation of $532,000, a spokesman said today.

The construction project includes three, new classrooms, a library, kindergarten expansion of the activities room, renovations to the administrative offices and improved ventilation.

The bids ranged from Dalziel Construction's $466,327 to K.C. Johnson's $502,288 and will be considered at the next school board meeting May 23.

American Donates Cape Scott Land

An unidentified American has donated a parcel of property in Cape Scott Park to the people of B.C.

The land is on Nels Bight on the park's west coast.

"It's a key area in the park," said Derek Arnold, Victoria representative of the Nature Conservancy of Canada.

"It includes one of the finest beaches in the park.

Arnold said the gift was handled through the U.S. Nature Conservancy in Arlington, Virginia.

The 21,000-acre park created by the NDP government in 1973 is at the northwest tip of Vancouver Island.

Only Joe Jobs At Manpower, Ryan Charges

Canada Manpower isn't meeting its obligations as an effective agency for helping the unemployed, Larry Ryan, secretary of the Victoria Labor Council, said Wednesday.

He told a meeting of the Victoria Committee of the Unemployed that Manpower offices are the worst places to go to find good jobs.

"All the joe jobs are at Manpower," Ryan said. "Manpower is the end of the line.

"It is sad to see the jobs listed at Manpower."

However, Ryan tempered his criticism by adding that Manpower isn't entirely to blame as the major employers bypass the federal agency in seeking people to fill positions.

He said employers like banks, B.C. Forest Products Ltd. and the provincial government want to be more selective in deciding who they interview and hire for jobs.

The principle behind a central employment agency like Manpower is a good one, Ryan said, because it provides more objectivity in hiring procedures.

"It would be a step in the right direction if the major employers could be channelled through Manpower."

Ryan's remarks were sparked by the unemployed committee's decision to conduct a study of the services provided by Manpower and how those services are used by businesses in Victoria.

Ryan also suggested that the educational system provide young people with some understanding of the role of the labor movement in providing good jobs.

He said many young people don't understand that a number of unions have their own hiring halls and refer people to better-paid jobs than Manpower.

"Most of the good jobs are union jobs due to the fact that unions tend to improve conditions," he said.

On another matter, one member of the unemployed committee volunteered to look into the possibility of getting money from the provincial government to finance a special child care service in Victoria this summer in light of the many tourists expected for the Capt. Cook festivities.

NORAD Exercise All Set

The North American Air Defence Command (NORAD) will carry out Vigilant Overview, a four-day exercise from May 15 to 18, involving about 12,000 NORAD personnel.

Canadians taking part will include the 409 all-weather fighting squadron from CFB Comox, CFS Baldy Hughes near Prince George, CFS Kamloops and CFS Holberg on Vancouver Island.

Flying is scheduled for the late evening hours of May 17 and the early morning hours of May 18 when civil air traffic is at its lowest level.

The Gibsons can't find their beloved pork pies

Who Can Blame the Indians?

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Roy and Sheila Gibson are happy to be in Victoria celebrating the Capt. Cook bicentenary but they can understand why Indians are not joining the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson, who live in Cook's birthplace, Middlesbrough, England, won a 10-day B.C. holiday in a contest sponsored by the B.C. Bicentennial Committee.

"We're having a marvellous time," Gibson said.

"Naturally we are delighted Capt. Cook came here 200 years ago. But I can understand why the Indians are not celebrating. Why should they? What have they got to celebrate? I don't think they gained anything by the arrival of the white man.

"Still, if Cook didn't come somebody else would have. I'm glad it was us (England) and not somebody else."

The Gibsons, both in their 40s, won the trip in a contest where residents of Middlesbrough were invited to list their priorities if they had the chance to visit B.C. and to write a sentence saying why they wanted to make the trip.

Mrs. Gibson won the prize.

"I wrote that I wanted to film the trip and show it to my students. I teach 8 and 9-year-olds and they will be excited to see the film. I hope it turns out."

Gibson, who is a mechanical engineer for Imperial Chemical Industries, added he didn't know his wife had entered the contest.

"The highlight so far has been our fishing trip yesterday. We each caught a salmon. We've never done anything like that before," Gibson said.

"I don't know how they arranged it so we'd each catch a fish."

English Pair Win Centennial Trip to B.C. But Sympathize With Protests Of the Natives

His salmon weighed in at five pounds and hers about four pounds.

Mrs. Gibson added that another highlight was a visit to see the killer whale at Sealand.

"We didn't get wet but a lot of people did. My students should enjoy the films of people scurrying about trying to stay dry. It was all very thrilling."

A surprise was the visit to the Olde England Inn.

"It was so much like England we were homesick," Mrs. Gibson said. "It was silly after only a couple of days but it was so authentic."

The Gibsons arrived Monday and every day has been a busy round of Victoria sights — sort of a Victoria sampler.

"Now that the formal part is ending we want to spend a few days relaxing and seeing more of some things," Gibson said.

"Yes," added Mrs. Gibson, "especially the Provincial Museum. There's nothing like that back home."

Victoria was about like the Gibsons expected — they get letters and postcards from a niece, Fay Scraggs of Pedder Bay — but they were particularly impressed by the cleanliness of the city.

"Everyone is so concerned about the environment here," Mrs. Gibson said. "We wish it were like that back in England. There's some improvement but it is coming very slowly."

Gibson said Victoria is great but he was sure he would notice the lack of a British pub if he stayed here for an extended period.

"And also pork pies," his wife added. "You can't get them anywhere. But there is so much of everything else here. I'm looking forward to seeing a Canadian supermarket. I expect the prices are a little higher than back home."

'SPILL' SLITHERED THE WRONG WAY

WHITE ROCK (CP) — A five-hour exercise to test oil spill mop-up equipment and procedure ran into a hitch Tuesday when a 30-kilometre-an-hour wind moved the "spill" east, instead of west as predicted.

Twenty bags of peat moss were used to simulate a patch of oil during the exercise, which was sponsored by the Canadian Coast Guard and the Environmental Protection Service.

Tide charts and maps of water currents had indicated the spill was headed to Crescent Beach but it travelled instead to the beach off this municipality south of Vancouver.

By 4 p.m., the search and rescue hovercraft and the Rotork Seatruck had trapped the slick inside the 50-metre Vikoma Seapack, a self-inflated boom that is filled with air and water.

Cleanup chief Captain Iain Young, regional marine emergency officer, said following the exercise that he had hoped the weather would be rougher.

He said the West Coast is not prepared to handle a major oil spill because the equipment available is still too primitive and the technology too limited.

17 Hours to Sober, Inquest Jury Told

VANCOUVER (CP) — The inquest into a fatal accident in nearby White Rock last fall was told Wednesday that an American involved in the crash was so intoxicated that doctors had to wait 17 hours before they could give him pre-operation anesthetic.

Two doctors also told the inquest into the death of Peter Steward that Ray Haley of Blaine, Wash., was incoherent and had difficulty staying awake during treatment he received in Royal Columbian Hospital soon after the accident.

The accident occurred just after midnight last Sept. 7 when Haley's sedan was in collision with Steward's sports car at a Surrey intersection. Steward died immediately and Haley spent about a week in hospital with a dislocated shoulder, badly damaged knee and broken ankle.

Dr. Gilbert Dyck testified that Haley was drowsy and "obviously intoxicated" to the point where he required only one-half the normal amount of pain killer to reposition his dislocated jaw and knee.

Dr. John Hunt, an orthopedic surgeon, was called in about three hours after the accident. He said he would have operated as soon as possible on Haley's knee if it hadn't been for Haley's apparent state of intoxication.

Hunt said there was a strong odor of alcohol around Haley and that his speech was almost incomprehensible.

The doctor said a hospital anesthetist decided not to operate until Haley "sobered up" 17 hours after the accident.

Hunt said that when he saw Haley the following day the patient said he couldn't remember anything from before the accident.

The inquest was told that no blood sample was taken for alcohol analysis because police hadn't requested one. It was also explained to the inquest jury that the patient's written authorization is required before such a sample is taken.

A pathology report said Steward had not been drinking.

RCMP Constable Richard Bamford testified that he phoned the hospital twice to arrange an interview but was told that Haley couldn't be seen. He later went to see Haley at his home in Blaine, where the RCMP have no jurisdiction.

Bamford testified that friends Haley had been visiting said he had only consumed two ounces of bourbon in their presence prior to the accident.

A Really Hot Party

SURREY (CP) — Police said four men were being sought after a house burned to the ground following a party which ended Tuesday morning.

The occupants had been partying most of the preceding day, and during the evening a number of other people joined in.

Police said the two tenants left around 10 p.m. but the party continued. Shortly after the tenants left, four armed men arrived and said they were looking for money from the tenants.

They found nothing and joined the party.

Most of the revellers had left by the time the fire began.

Shots Net Charge

McBRIDE (CP) — Keith William Skead, 34, and Edgar Erwin Gohnl, 19, were charged with dangerous use of a firearm and mischief after shots were fired through the walls of a Canadian National Railways bunkhouse and a CN yard light was shot out Monday.

Police said the men will appear in provincial court here June 8.

B.C. Rail Ends Dispute

The B.C. Railway has reached a four-point agreement with its joint council of railway unions ending a dispute that halted all but passenger service on the government-owned railway, a company spokesman said Wednesday.

Included is a promise by BCR not to purchase products from the strike-bound Husky Oil refinery in Prince George.

Hugh Armstrong, manager of public relations for the railway said Wednesday the first freight train left Vancouver for Prince George Wednesday morning following a one-day wildcat strike by members of the six-union joint council.

Armstrong said the railway also agreed to reduce demerit points for a considerable number of workers who walked off the job during study sessions held in mid-April; both parties have a commitment to work to improve over-all labor relations on the railway, and no disciplinary action will be taken against men now returning to work following the current dispute.

Joint Ft. Nelson Plea

Management and union organizations representing the forest industry in the province's northeast have joined forces and asked the government to keep open the B.C. Railway's Fort Nelson extension.

The International Woodworkers of America and the North Cariboo Forest Labor Relations Association submitted a five-page brief Wednesday to Premier Bill Bennett saying that trucking costs for forest products would be about $4 million more than present rail costs if the line closed.

The royal commission into the Crown-owned railway has recommended that the 400-kilometre line be shut down as soon as possible in order to save up to $70 million in capital and operating costs during the next five years.

The commission suggested that trucks be used to ship forest products south.

Inquest Raps Gov't Probe

CRANBROOK (CP) — A lawyer for the coroner conducting an inquest into the deaths of 43 persons in the Feb. 11 crash of a Pacific Western Airlines jet said Wednesday he could not understand why Transport Canada was not more involved in the inquiry.

Dirk Ryneveld said in an interview that he introduced a transcript of the final communications made by the Pacific Western Airlines pilot from the Boeing 737 because it was more legible than one given to him by Transport Canada.

Transport Canada has been conducting an investigation into the crash. A spokesman estimated it would be completed about the end of this month.

Some of the investigation's results were presented to the six-man jury Wednesday through a video-taped television program.

"We certainly can't cross-examine this," remarked coroner Dr. Alan Askey, nodding at the TV set.

Testimony has revealed that PWA's flight 314 from Calgary made a normal landing in daylight at Cranbrook, where visibility was limited to one kilometre by snow, but it then tried to take off again while a snowplow was on the runway.

The jet lifted off, passed over the snowplow, and climbed to about 100 metres where it suddenly banked sharply to the left, crashed and burned near the end of the runway.

Wednesday's testimony revealed:

—the left engine's thrust reverser was found deployed in the wreckage, which could account for the steep bank to the left.

—the flight crew of Captain Chris Miles and co-pilot Peter Von Oort acknowledged a radio message from the Cranbrook air radio station that a snowplow was on the runway.

—the flight crew did not give either Cranbrook or Calgary air traffic control the required approach plan, and other PWA flights to Cranbrook have failed to report their positions.

PWA lawyer Eric Lane said he was surprised that Ryneveld would introduced as evidence the voice transcript between the jet and Cranbrook, made by a PWA pilot from tape recordings.

"We (PWA) thought it was an in-house document," said Lane. "It wasn't professionally prepared."

Harry Fooks, manager of the Cranbrook air radio station, testified that where the pilot had marked "very faint transmission" on the transcript, he knew what the words were.

Bill Brenner, lawyer for Boeing, asked why the inquest was using such a transcript "when every word was critical."

Askey refused Brenner's request to have the tape played at the inquest, saying it would be too difficult to interpret, but lawyers could hear it on their own.

Ryneveld said the transcript was approved by Rod Poole, a transport ministry investigator.

The Transport Canada video tape showed the left engine's thrust reverser deployed in the wreckage. Reversers are located on the rear of jet engines and, when deployed on landing, change the direction of the engine's thrust to brake the aircraft.

"There is no question in the mind of the investigators that the (thrust reverser) doors were fully deployed prior to ground impact," said the program's narrator.

RCMP photographs introduced earlier showed the thrust reverse override switch cover on the instrument panel was pulled.

Witnesses have testified that the aircraft took off properly after aborting the landing, which could indicate a sudden malfunction of the reverser.

WHISTLER GROWTH

VANCOUVER (CP) — Garibaldi Lifts Ltd. announced plans Wednesday for a $5.6 million expansion at Whistler Mountain, British Columbia's largest ski resort.

The plans call for the construction of three new chairlifts up the mountain's north face which has no lifts at present. The lifts will be connecting and passengers will have to take all three to reach the mountain top.

The lowest lift will originate at the site of the proposed Whistler townsite.

Fraud Charged Landlord

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mohammad Kuraishi, 31, landlord of a downtown hotel, was committed for higher court trial Tuesday on a charge of attempting to defraud an elderly tenant of $142,500.

Kuraishi is charged with attempting to defraud Michael Fabennec, 77, between Nov. 15 and Dec. 30, 1977.

Fabennec, who lives in a $95-a-month room with no bath or toilet, earned part of the money by investing in the stock market and has never applied for old age pension.

Kuraishi was charged after management of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce became suspicious when a man claiming to be acting with power of attorney tried twice to withdraw money from Fabennec's term-deposit account.

Copper Mine To Shut Down

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Phoenix copper mine near Grand Forks will be closed later this year, the Granby Mining Corporation said Wednesday.

The first announcement that the mine was worked out came in August 1976, but milling the stockpile of ore has continued. The mine first opened in 1899.

"A definite closure date has not beeen established," R. P. Taylor, president, said Wednesday. "However, it is evident that both of the sources of ore feeding the mill will be exhausted by yearend."

The company expects to transfer some of the remaining 90 employees to its subsidiary, Granisle Copper Ltd., near Houston, and will offer help to other Phoenix employees to find jobs in the mining industry.

Guides Reject Royalties

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — British Columbia's professional guides do not want royalties from hunters using their territories, says the president of the guide's association.

And MLA Jack Kempf (SC—Omineca) denies a similar claim that he recently told guides the provincial government was considering giving them absolute tenure over hunting in their territories.

The denials follow statements by Bill Otway, president of the B.C. Wildlife Federation who recently said such legislation would mean B.C. hunters would have to seek permission from guides or pay them royalties to hunt on their territories.

Otway also said guides asked for the same control over hunting territories that forest companies have in timber leases, a proposal contained in a brief earlier this year to a provincial inquiry into issuance of guiding and outfitter's licences.

There is nothing fancy or spectacular about our South declarer's play of today's hand. But it does serve as a good example of what top-notch play is all about.

North-South vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East

3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♡.

West's opening heart lead was won by East's ace, South's king falling. The return of a heart was ruffed by South. Declarer now paused to take inventory.

If the outstanding trumps were divided 2-2, then the fulfillment of the contract would present no dificulty; after gathering in the defenders' trumps, declarer would give away a third club lead and ruff his fourth club with dummy's remaining trump. But if the trumps were divided 3-1 and declarer drew trumps — including all of dummy's trumps — then the success of the contract would depend on the six outstanding clubs being divided 3-3.

Declarer's worry was that the four missing trumps might be divided 3-1, and that the six adversely held clubs were divided 4-2. His problem was how to make the contract in these later circumstances. He found the winning solution.

After ruffing the second heart lead, declarer cashed the ace of trumps. He then led the deuce of clubs, and when West followed with the six, dummy's three was played. East took the trick with the nine and returned the eight of trumps to South's king.

Next came a club to dummy's king, after which a club was led to South's ace, West discarding a heart. Declarer's fourth club was then ruffed with dummy's remaining trump. From here in declarer's only loser was a diamond trick.

Had declarer drawn two rounds of trumps at tricks three and four, he would have gone down, for East, upon winning the third club lead, would have lead his last trumps, removing dummy's last trump. And eventually east would have won a second club trick.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Friday, May 12

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Moods dominate. Go slow. Review basic material. Definite terms. Avoid self-deception. Pisces, Virgo figure prominently. If thorough, you can build on solid base. You're on way up, following recent disillusionment.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your position is strong, despite comments by relatives who don't know, wish they did and might be generally frustrated. Capricorn, Cancer persons figure prominently. Short trip could bring delightful results.

GEMINI (May 21—June 20): Get rid of superfluous material. Aim towards goal, get rundown on costs, potential gross and net gains. Talk money with Aries, Libra persons. Your message gets across, more persons are receptive to our suggestions, formats, plans.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): New starts, originality, independence, creativity and love are part of your personal scenario. Moon in your sign coincides with excellent timing, hunch that is on target. Trust ourself —y ou are going to win!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You gain access to privileged information. One who aided or inspired you in past could make reappearance. Be optimistic, receptive. Creative dream interpretation could help in resolving dilemma. Aquarius, Cancer persons figure prominently.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accent on new friends, a new look at one who supposedly was mild, lacked fervor. Leo, Aquarius, Capricorn figure in scenario. Social activity increases — and so does popularity. You find a unique way of getting point across.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Efforts pay dividends — superiors take note and discusss reward. Determination, thoroughness, basic honesty now should be your hallmarks. You are going in right direction, despite delays, minor revisions, temporary disillusionment. Stick with number 4.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Communicate, get ideas and procedures out to public where they can be evaluated. Get off the sidelines and become an active participant. You've earned chance at "starting role." Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius persons could figure prominently. You can bridge distance, language and generation gaps.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be practical, especially in connection with leases, budgets affecting partner or mate, home repairs. Taurus, Libra, Sagittarius individuals play roles in your personal scenario. Yes, family adjustment works in beneficial manner.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Play waiting game; time is on your side. Refuse to be rushed, pushed, chided, cajoled into hasty judgment. Let others have their say. Be a careful, shrewd observer. Play cards close to chest. Marriage situation is highlighted.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Steady pace, determination and dedication get job done. Capricorn, Cancer individuals figure prominently. You learn now who depends on you as contrasted to "using" you. Take special care in connection with rest, diet requirements.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Creative resources are activated. Charisma is apparent as people are drawn to you. Accent on change, travel, variety, intensified relationship. Aries, Libra figure prominently. You finish task and gain wider recognition.

IF MAY 12 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have wonderful sense of humor, are creative, sensitive, artistic, versatile and stubborn. You have a tendency to be estravagant, to expect the best in others and to be disappointed at witnessing the frailities of humans. You are popular, gregarious, often try doing too much at once — and have an infectious laugh. Gemini, Sagittarius persons play important roles in your life. Major domestic adjustment or change of residence could be featured in 1978 — September and November are significant months.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

A 45-year-old woman was charged in provincial court Wednesday with fraud and theft over $200 in connection with an alleged $65,000 stolen from the Bank of B.C.'s main Victoria branch between September, 1973, and April 5, 1978.

Doreen Frances Massina, 3921 Leeds Court, appeared before Judge Harold Alder and was released on her own recognizance in the sum of $2,500 after her lawyer, Brian Smith, elected trial by judge without jury and waived the preliminary hearing.

Mrs. Massina was an employee of the bank branch at 752 Fort during the period of the alleged thefts.

Judge William Ostler handed out two-month jail terms to two teen-agers after reading their pre-sentence reports.

Dale Rodney Gibelhaus, 17, of 738 Wilson, received the sentence, which Ostler said he would recommend be served in a forestry camp, was placed on one year's probation, ordered to attend the Metchosin Camp program, and also ordered to perform 50 hours of community service work.

Gibelhaus pleaded guilty to a Feb. 10 break-in at 101-1180 View during which $2,500 worth of stereo equipment and records were taken and to possession of a stolen 10-speed bicycle Feb. 21.

Stanley Stephen West, 18, of 1736 Duchess, also received two months on the possession charge, given the same conditions as Gibelhaus and also ordered not to possess or consume liquor until the age of 19.

Using the venacular of defence lawyer Patrick Sweeney, Ostler said it was not quite true Gibelhaus was the product of a "throwaway-child" syndrome but a "thrust-aside" syndrome.

In sentencing West, the judge said he believed strongly in probation but did not propose to make a mockery of the probation section by handing out a further period to West. Ostler noted that West was given suspended sentences and probation periods on Jan. 6 and March 30 of this year with no results.

West was convicted on Jan. 6 in Duncan of possession of a stolen vehicle and was given a suspended sentence and two years probation. He was convicted March 30 in Victoria of theft under $200 and given a suspended sentence and nine months probation.

A Wilkinson Road inmate who was out on a day pass at the time pleaded guilty to damaging a bus stop shelter and was given a 30-day jail term by Alder.

David Brian Morberg, 22, pleaded guilty to mischief causing wilful damage and to possession of marijuana.

Crown counsel Don Laughton told the court Morberg and a companion were seen breaking a window and supporting beam in a bus stop shelter in the 600-block Esquimalt Road. During the investigation by Victoria city police, federal Crown counsel Chris Considine added, one marijuana cigarette was found on Morberg.

Defence lawyer Trudi Brown said Morberg was out on a day pass at the time of the incident and that he lost all his pass privileges because of it. She said Morberg had 29 days to serve on his current sentence.

Morberg was given a four-month term March 14, 1978, for causing bodily harm.

In giving 30-day and five-day, concurrent sentences, Alder also placed Morberg on six months probation and ordered him to pay $156.89 restitution to the Corporation of the City of Victoria for damages to the shelter.

A 20-year-old who kicked in a plate glass window earlier Wednesday morning at The Empress because he was mad at his car was given a suspended sentence but was ordered to pay for the $125 window.

Gregory Edward Stinson, 948 Esquimalt, pleaded guilty to mischief causing wilful damage. Laughton said the incident happened shortly after midnight and that the glass was part of a door and measured six feet by three feet. Stinson told police he did it because his car wouldn't work.

Before passing sentence, Alder suggested that Stinson kick the car the next time he was mad at it.

Fined for drinking-driving were: Bartley Thomas Batchelor, 48, of 3116 Woodpark, $600; Frederick Hugh Harcombe, 22, of 461 Spartan, $500; Michael Kenneth Renning, 37, of Mill Bay, $400; David George Smith, 23, of 1666 Tillicum, $400; Peter Alexander McInnis, 63, of 697 Highway Lake Road, $400; and Stephen Bruce Craig, 18, of 2786 Sooke Road, $400.

$680,000 In Back Pay

BOSTON (AP) — Houghton Mifflin Co. has agreed to distribute $680,000 in back pay to 250 past and present women employees under a consent decree approved by a federal judge.

U.S. District Court Judge Andrew Caffrey approved the decree in the case filed Nov. 12, 1975 by five women employees who charged the publishing company with sex discrimination.

Beepers Proposed For Risky Cargoes

Automatic direction finders should be carried on all hazardous cargoes to assist recovery of containers lost at sea, an ocean chemist said Tuesday.

Speaking at a seminar at the Institute of Ocean Sciences at Patricia Bay, chemical oceanographer Rob McDonald said radio signallers on such shipments as the four rail tankers of chlorine lost in Georgia Strait in February 1975 might have led to their recovery.

His speech dealt with the chemical effects of dropping chlorine tanks into the strait and concluded that emission of chlorine into seawater at depths below 50 metres would not likely cause explosion or boilup, since these types of reaction usually require heat.

Music on Mall Tonight

Strollers and shoppers in Hillside Mall will get free entertainment between 7 and 8 tonight courtesy of the Conservatory Wind Ensemble.

The group also will perform for shoppers at the Fort and Foul Bay Safeway store Friday at 5:30 p.m.

It's all in aid of letting the public know that the Conservatory of Music's Open Day is on Saturday, which is to be proclaimed Conservatory Day by Mayor Mike Young.

Conservatory faculty and students will be at home Saturday between 2 and 5 p.m. in their Craigdarroch Castle quarters, opening studios to visitors who will be able to see lessons and classes in progress and watch videotaped highlights from the Conservatory year.

GENERAL MANAGER Jim Keeling, Jr., of Orangeville Raceways Ltd., discusses track conditions with owner-driver Willie Urquhart in preparation for opening of 57-day standardbred season at Sandown Park, June 3. Track has been shaved four inches to provide firmer footing. Horse is Nole's Chieftain.

For a Man Who Came to Visit Keeling's Enjoyed His Trip

bill walker

It's not the usual story as to why standardbred racing will begin at Sandown June 3.

Because five would have got you ten just a few short months ago that no way would Jack Diamond of the B.C. Jockey Club go to bed with the harness people.

Not after what had gone before. There had been little love lost between the two groups right from the start; and, even now, the principals still aren't exactly on speaking terms.

However, times change, traditions die, business is business and thereby hangs that tale. Why keep the place dark when someone wants to use it?

When Jim Keeling, the guiding hand behind Orangeville Raceways Ltd., came to B.C. in 1974 it wasn't a case of go west, young man, go west, and he went. Rather, it was because he was invited. He wasn't young, either. He is "over 70". And he wasn't all that impressed with what he saw until he went back to his hotel the night before he was scheduled to leave and thought things over. It was only then that he saw the light, and that's why he is here now.

The sport is something he's been involved in for a long time. He got started in harness racing back in 1952.

"I owned my first standardbred then," he said, " and I raced in Montreal, at Blue Bonnets and Richelieu."

It was after moving to Orangeville from Owen Sound that Orangeville Raceway became his and his family's way of life. He took a chance and it paid off. It is still paying off for the Keeling family which owns 50 per cent of the operation. (Orangeville, for those interested, comes under that old chestnut of being somewhere between here and there, but more specfically is 60 miles south-east of Owen Sound and 20 miles north-west of Toronto).

Keeling's original harness racing operation began in 1969. And all was serene in Orangeville and there weren't really any plans to move until fate played its card.

But as Keeling tells it:

"A friend of mine, Sid Pratt of the Department of Agriculture, was always suggesting that I should go out west, but I didn't think much of the idea. Then once he phoned from Calgary and asked if I would go to B.C. and advise them on harness racing in Cloverdale. So I went. Even then, I really wasn't interested. And it wasn't until just before we were set to take off for home, that I changed my mind.

"I saw the possibilities of operating a track and we stayed.

"I looked over several sites, figured Delta was out of the question, got an option to lease on the Cloverdale site and applied for racing dates. So did three other groups.

"They were all from B.C., but I got approval in November of 1974. We spent all of '75 building, and opened in '76."

That first year Cloverdale was just another gamble. But what a gamble. The mutuel play was better than expected and when the initial 106-day season had ended the average daily handle was a respectable $148,496.

The following year, there was a 35 per cent boost to $203,058. In 1978 the average is still going up, and is at $240,350 over 68 days with the fall meeting yet to come.

The climax came on the final day this spring when the bettors pushed $353,156 through the mutuels.

Average crowd at Cloverdale was 2,348, and that brings out an interesting fact. Because any thoughts that harness race players aren't the big spenders that the thoroughbred plungers are supposed to be, should be dispelled.

For example the per capital wagering for the thoroughbreds at Sandown last year was $60. At Cloverdale it was $93.

And speaking of money, it's been a two-way street. While the Cloverdale operation has been a success, Keeling has contributed to it to the extent of slightly over $3 million.

"When Keeling was first contacted on the possibility of coming to the Island, he said: "I've felt ever since I got started that harness racing had a future in B.C." And before the lease for Sandown was negotiated, Keeling investigated the possibility of purchasing land here to build his own track. That option is still open.

He's pleased to be at Sandown, but he still feels that Diamond made a mistake in not pursuing harness racing at Exhibition Park when he had the opportunity.

"Why Diamond didn't put a half-mile track inside the thoroughbred track, I'll never know," he said. "I think it would have been a natural."

Keeling can also look back on the effect his decision to stay in B.C. has had on the standardbred industry.

"In the spring of March, 1976, our first year, we only had 38 B.C. horses. Now 60 per cent of the horses we have running are from the province."

And, as to another difference between thoroughbreds and standardbreds, it is felt by standardbred owners that they have a closer affinity to the horse. After all, many of them drive, and weight is not a problem. Also, it is not uncommon for a standardbred to run 40 to 60 times a season. Besides, in the matter of purse monies, even though they may be smaller on the average than at thoroughbred meetings, there are fewer middle-men, trainers, agents, jockeys, etc.

And that's partly why the Keelings, father and son, are here, and trust they will be welcome.

SuperSonics Grab Series Lead

Fred Brown scored 11 points and John Johnson added 10 in the final period to lead Seattle SuperSonics to a 105-91 victory over Denver Nuggets Wednesday night at Seattle and a 2-1 lead in their National Basketball Association semi-final playoff series.

The fourth game of the Western Conference championship series is set for Friday night in Seattle.

The Nuggets, who trailed by 13 points early in the third period, closed to 77-74 at the end of the period on a Mack Calvin jumper. Johnson rammed home a 10-footer and Brown followed with a long jumper for a seven-point Sonic lead.

Bobby Wilkerson and rookie Anthony Roberts followed with baskets for Denver to pull the Nuggets to within three points with 8:36 remaining. They never got closer down the stretch.

The victory was the 18th in a row for the Sonics at home.

Philadelphia '76ers defeated Washington Bullets 107-94 for their second win in the Eastern final. The Bullets lead 3-2.

Canada's Inexperience Exploited by Russians

PRAGUE (CP) — Lack of experience in the highly-charged atmosphere of international hockey caught up with a youthful Team Canada at the world championship Wednesday.

That and the loss of composure that followed a bad call by Finnish referee Raimo Sepponen resulted in a 5-1 victory for the Soviet Union.

Coupled with Czechoslovakia's 6-1 win over Sweden, it left the Canadians tied with the Swedes with 4-4 records in third place. A bronze medal is the best either club can hope for and it's likely to be decided when they meet on Sunday on the final day of the tournament.

The Czechoslovakians, world champions the last two years, remain undefeated at 8-0 with games Friday against Canada and Sunday against Russia, now 7-1.

"The players who have never been involved in international hockey before don't know how those Russians play," said Canadian captain Marcel Dionne. "They think they're going to let up for a couple of minutes but they don't. They play 60 minutes. The last minute they were on the ice they played like they did in the first minute.

"The Russians did exactly what they wanted to do on Monday. We didn't. We started running at them instead of taking the body and staying with them. We chased them.

"If you start cross-checking those guys and trying to intimidate them, they're going to stick it to you. And that's exactly what they did."

The Canadians played disciplined hockey for the first 20 minutes and neither team scored in the first period. But their system began to break down early in the second period and two goals in two minutes by Sergei Kapustin and Victor Zhlutkov started their downfall.

Then when Sepponen gave Canadian defenceman Pick Hampton a five-minute penalty for an incident he didn't see, the Canadians protested loud and long and promptly lost their composure.

With the teams playing five a side, Vladimir Golikov took advantage of Canada's frustration to make it 3-0. Before Hampton returned in the third period, Vyachelsav Fetisov scored the fourth Russian goal.

The incident that upset the Canadians came late in the second period. Sepponen gave Serge Kapustin of Russia minor penalty for high-sticking and was apparently about to give Hampton a minor as well. But Vasiliy Pervukhin, who had been cut when hit by Hampton's stick as the Canadian tried to pass the puck, skated over to show the referee the blood. Sepponen promptly made it a major penalty.

Petes Make It to Final; Still Hope for Bruins

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Peterborough Petes could have won by losing, but defeat does not sit well with the Ontario Major Junior Hockey League champions, and they were not about to accept it.

Tim Trimper scored with three seconds left in regulation time Wednesday to force sudden-death overtime, and Keith Crowder's goal 20 seconds into overtime dealt New Westminster Bruins of the Western Canada League a 4-3 loss in Memorial Cup tournament play.

The result sends Peterborough directly to the championship game Saturday at Sudbury with a 3-1 won-lost record in double round-robin play. The Bruins play the injury-plagued Trois-Rivieres Draveurs of the Quebec Major Junior League tonight at Sudbury. Both clubs are 1-2 and the winner will provide Peterborough's opposition in the title game.

But, because of their goals-for-and-against totals, the Petes would have clinched a championship berth even with a 3-2 loss to the defending Cup champions from the WCHL.

General manager-coach Gary Green hardly seemed surprised about the Petes' less-than-necessary comeback, however. "We feel we've got a lot of pride," said Green, "and we hate to lose."

Mark Kirton and Stuart Smith scored the Petes' other goals, while John Paul Kelly, Randy Irving an Bill Hobbins scored for the Bruins before 3,641 fans.

The Draveurs go into their game tonight against the Bruins with a rash of injuries that still was not fully determined. As many as seven Draveurs were believed to be hurting.

Tough Job For Flyers

BOSTON — Philadelphia Flyers face a difficult task tonight in their bid to prolong their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final series with Boston Bruins.

Bruins lead 3-1 but have home-ice advantage. And in the playoffs, that's something. Visiting teams have managed just 13 victories in 38 National Hockey League playoff games at the Boston Garden.

Tonight's game will be televised on the full CBC network (channels 2 and 6 in Victoria) starting at 4:30 p.m. PDT.

Canada Beaten

TOKYO (AP) — The Canadian national women's volleyball team lost its opening game to the Yakult company team 15-5, 15-5, 15-5 at Fujisawa, south of Tokyo, today.

The Canadians are visiting Japan for a series of four goodwill games.

WHITECAPS END SEATTLE MYSTIQUE

SEATTLE (AP) — Kevin Hector and Bob Lenarduzzi scored for Vancouver as the Whitecaps defeated Seattle Sounders 2-1 in a North American Soccer League game Wednesday night. It was Vancouver's first win over Seattle.

Hector scored unassisted from seven yards out after 31 minutes, 51 seconds. Lenarduzzi took Alan Hinton's centring pass from the corner and sent the ball past Seattle goalie Tony Chursky at 72:49.

The Sounders got their goal at 83:31 on a 20-yard shot by Tommy Ord, with an assist from Mickey Cave.

The two Vancouver goals were the first scored against the Sounders at home in regular-season play since last July 15.

In other games Colorado defeated Philadelphia 4-2, Minnesota downed Memphis 2-1 and Portland blanked Detroit 1-0.

Ivan Ponders Boxla Future

Victoria Shamrocks open a four-game Western Lacrosse Association road trip tonight against the Salmonbellies in New Westminster but Ivan Thompson plans on staying home.

The high-scoring forward informed the club Wednesday he will be taking three or four days off to reconsider his decision earlier this year to end a short retirement.

Thompson, who scored twice and assisted on three others during the league opener May 3, had 44 goals and 56 assists in 22 league games last season and led the WLA playoff scoring race with 25 goals and 25 assists.

Meanwhile, in league play Wedesday, former Victoria McDonalds star Kevin Alexander led Nanaimo Timbermen to a narrow 14-13 decision over visiting Coquitlam Adanacs and Vancouver Burrards bounced the Salmonbellies 17-12 at Vancouver's Kerrisdale Arena.

Alexander pounded in a total of seven goals, including the winner with 30 seconds remaining, to boost his production to 12 goals in two games.

Brian Evans added two goals and five assists for Nanaimo while the other goals were contributed by Rick Sage, Bob Avender, Ken King, Bob Cool and Pete Rushton. Jim Aitchison set the pace for Adanacs with three goals and two assists.

In Vancouver, Ron Pinder scored three goals for the Burrards, who broke open a close-checking game with short-handed goals 38 seconds apart midway through the third period. Keith Scott led Salmonbellies with four goals.

Despite Bob's Faith, Max Picks the Tide

Got to make a bet here with my Welsh-born friend Bob Stinchcombe.

You see, he's been telling me that Newport, defending club champions in Wales, are going to cream the Crimson Tide in the international rugby match Sunday (kickoff 2:30 p.m.) at Centennial Stadium.

The very talkative (specially when it comes to rugby) Vic West teacher says last season's 28-17 win by the Tide over Cardiff, Welsh champs the year before, was a lucky blow and this time the visitors will give the Islanders the old Welsh what's what.

Now, he's GOT to say that. Any self-respecting Welshman (sorry, I forgot he just got his Canadian citizenship the other day) must. Even those who don't sing songs about coal mines and towns with names you can't pronounce, stick up for Wales when it comes to rugby. And after all Bob grew up just a few miles from the Newport Club ground.

But sorry, Robert old son. I have to say you're wrong.

I have to say I believe the Island's Crimson Tide has reached maturity as far as international rugby goes and can hold its own. Okay, maybe not against New Zealand's All Blacks nor the British Lions, but certainly against club sides from anywhere. And that goes for mighty Newport, too.

I have to say I believe the Tide fully deserved its win last season over Cardiff and, when the shouting has died down Sunday will have earned its victory over Newport. By at least 10 points, Bob. So get your loot out!

Which ever way it goes, though, it should be a pretty good game.

Led by centre David Burcher, now in his second season as captain, Newport will rely heavily on the tricky kicking and running of its inside backs like scrum-half Allan Evans and flyhalf Keith James. The Welsh club's pack, too, led by vice-captain Colin Smart and featuring players like lock David Waters, who plays for Wales, props Jim Dale and Rhys Morgan and lock Jeff Watkins, who has played for the Barbarians, should keep the Tide forwards on their toes.

But I believe the Tide, though maybe a little suspect in the backs against such a classy club, will come out on top mainly because of the possession the pack will enjoy and because of the speed and mobility of its backrow forwards like Gary Johnston and Ken Wilke.

Where Newport will really get a chance to come into its own and dazzle local fans, I feel, will be in its second match here — against the Vancouver Island Rugby Union President's XV at 7 p.m. next Wednesday, also at Centennial Stadium.

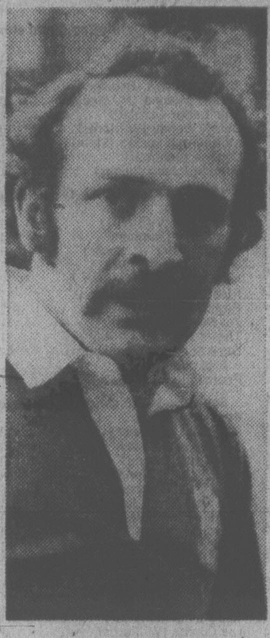
Welsh-born union president Alan Rees has vowed to give as many Islanders as possible a chance to get experience playing against the visitors and on Wednesday will use only Tide squad members and other club players who don't play Sunday.

So in that one Bob, the Welshmen could run all over the place and win by 30 points or so. Then again . . .

You might wonder why two international rugby encounters of this calibre are both being played up at UVic, where the field has been criticized before by visiting teams for being too narrow to allow fast open rugby.

Well, something you may not know is the Centenial Stadium track has been resurfaced, the pole vault area moved outside the enclosure and the field widened from 65 yards to a full-width 75 yards.

"This was done in a joint effort of financing by the federal government, the university and the four municipalities of Victoria, Saanich, Esquimalt and Oak Bay," explains Dave Titterton, who among other things is secretary-manager of the Stadium.



DAVID BURCHER
. . . Newport captain

Besides, the games are up at UVic because the Rugby Union got an offer it couldn't refuse. No charge is being made for the use of the Stadium for either of these big games. (Tickets will be $3 for adults and $1.50 for students and old age pensioners).

"Well, these are the first really major games we've had for rugby on the new wider field," explains Titterton. "We thought that by not charging them it would give the Union a chance to use that money to promote the games and to get across to the public that for the first time in its 11-year history Centennial Stadium is now a truly multi-purpose field."

One thing about it is: with Newport versus a full-strength Tide side set for Sunday, it's doubtful whether you could get a better game for a field's debut.

"Forget the facelift. I think we'll try lowering your body."

CHYNOWETH KEEPS POST

CALGARY (CP) — Ed Chynoweth is staying on as president of the Western Canada Hockey League.

Chynoweth, attending the Memorial Cup tournament in Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie, said the circumstances that caused him to initially cubmit his resignation have been cleared up.

He said a big problem facing the league was in refereeing.

"We started a program that we hoped will work to upgrade officiating. It will involve some dollars and cents from the owners, though."

Murray's Homer Ends Sox Streak at Seven

By The Associated Press

Eddie Murray's two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning gave Baltimore Orioles a 3-2 victory over Boston Wednesday night and ended the Red Sox' winning streak at seven games.

Carlos Lopez, batting for right fielder Larry Harlow, led off the ninth with a bloop single off Boston reliever Tom Burgmeier. Ken Singleton, who had homered in the fourth, advanced Lopez to second with a sacrifice bunt.

Then Murray hit his fifth home run of the season, a drive into the bullpen in right field.

Winner Mike Flanagan allowed seven hits and struck out 10.

In other American League action, Rick Bosetti and Bob Bailor had run-scoring hits in a three-run third inning that backed Jim Clancy's six-hitter and carried Toronto Blue Jays to a 3-1 triumph over Oakland A's.

Ron Pruitt hit a solo home run and rookie Ted Cox added a two-run single, sparking Cleveland Indians to a 6-1 victory over Seattle Mariners.

In the National League, Elliott Maddox drove in three runs with a double and single and John Stearns hit a home run for a 7-2 New York Mets win over Montreal Expos; Pittsburgh Pirates rode the six-hit, 12-strikeout performance of pitcher Bert Blyleven to a 5-1 win over San Francisco Giants; Philadelphia Phillies beat Houston Astros 3-1 with a two-run homer by rookie second baseman Jim Morrison; San Diego Padres beat Chicago Cubs 1-0 on a homer by George Hendrick, and St. Louis Cardinals beat Los Angeles Dodgers 6-5 with Lou Brock delivering a tie-breaking sacrifice fly in the sixth inning.

Hotelmen All Right

Ingraham Hotel's entry in the Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League passed along some information to its rivals.

They may be all right.

A power in the league last season, the Ingys have undergone wholesale player changes. But they're still capable, as evidenced by Wednesday's 9-3 victory over Sooke Merchants.

It was sparked by the four-for-four batting performance of shorstop Paul Lecompte and John Barnes' five-hit pitching.

Ingraham's entry in the Senior Women's League failed to match the men's surprise, bowing 21-0 to CJVI Vicettes. Nancy Beale tossed a one-hitter and Marilyn Moen sparked a 17-hit attack with a four-for-four performance.

In another women's game at Hyacinth Park, Hygrade Radio edged Butler Brothers 9-8. Kathy Hoffart recovered from a second-inning collision to bang out three hits for Hygrade.

At Sanscha Park, Saanich Breakers scored five runs in the sixth to upset Harvey's Sporting Goods 7-5.

LIVERPOOL LIFTS EUROPEAN CUP

LONDON (Reuter) — A moment of magic between Scottish World Cup stars Graeme Souness and Kenny Dalglish swept England's Liverpool to a 1-0 victory against Belgian champion Bruges in the European Cup soccer final at Wembley Stadium Wednesday night.

The match was never a classic, but Liverpool, driving forward for virtually 90 minutes, fully deserved to retain the trophy—Europe's leading club prize—which they first won last year in Rome, beating Borussia Moenchengladbach of West Germany.

England international Terry McDermott began the move which led to Liverpool's goal, hitting the ball along the line to Dalglish.

Dalglish then flicked the ball to Souness and was on hand to receive the return pass and calmly chip the ball wide and beyond the advancing and unprotected Bruges goalkeeper, Birger Jensen.

The teams were tied 0-0 at halftime.

A crowd of 92,000 watched the match.

Liverpool became the first British team to win the trophy twice in succession and the sixth club in history to retain the European title.

Claremont Leads In Meet Qualifiers

Mt. Douglas rallied to come close but Claremont still managed to qualify the highest number of athletes for finals in the Greater Victoria high school track and field championships following eliminations Wednesday at Centennial Stadium.

The finals get underway at 1 p.m. Friday at the same site.

Claremont finished with 80 athletes qualified while Mt. Douglas, who trailed a distant second during the first two days of qualifying, roared back to 72 on the final day. Dunsmuir, a relatively new school, finished a surprising third in the 13-school affair with 42 qualifiers.

Mike Toakley provided Claremont with its only field victory Wednesday by topping the high jump event.

Don Lennon of Mt. Doug was the fastest qualifier in the boys' 400 metres, winning his heat in 51.8 seconds. Blair Boland of Oak Bay and Paul Veerkamp of Mt. Douglas won their heats in 52 seconds and Darren Ash of Spectrum won his heat inn 53.4.

Rhonda McKenna of Claremont topped the list of girls' 400 metre qualifiers with a time of 59.7.

Jack Jorgenson, the only athlete from Edward Milne to qualify, won the boys' 100 with a heat time of 11.3.

Laura Mahoney of Dunsmuir clocked the fastest heat in the girls' 100, qualifying in 12.4 seconds.

Karl Higginbottom of Dunsmuir won her 100 heat in 12.8 and also topped the long jump qualifiers by leaping 5.04 metres.

Ken Kirzinger of Oak Bay led the boys' javelin with a toss of 47.04 metres.

Claremont finished with 49 "A" qualifiers out of the 80, Mt. Douglas had 43 out of 72 and Dunsmuir had 15 out of 42. Following in totals, with "A" qualifiers in brackets, were: St. Michael's University School 25 (10); Victoria High 22 (11); Oak Bay 18 (9); Parkland 17 (11); Esquimalt 13 (11); Spectrum 13 (5); Belmont 8 (2); Norfolk House 5 (0); Reynolds 3 (1); and Edward Milne 1 (1).

Baloo. . .the Boy Raised by Bears

London Observer

CALCUTTA — An eight-year-old boy, said to have been reared by bears, is now in the care of the Roman Catholic order founded by Mother Teresa.

According to one version of the story, he was found six months ago by a group of aboriginal hunters in the Sultanpur forest of Uttar Pradesh, and they took him to Mother Teresa's Bethany Mission in Lucknow.

Whatever the truth, the boy was under-nourished, inarticulate and barely human when he arrived on Easter Day. The mission priest named him Pascal because of the association with Easter, but to the people of Lucknow he will forever be known as Baloo — the Hindu word for bear.

Baloo has quietened down a lot at the mission, a home for 54 deaf mutes, polio victims and palsied cripples run by five nuns under Sister Eva. He refused all food to start with, wildly clapped his hands, and kept everyone awake with bloodcurling shrieks throughout the night. He was also given to leaping upon other inmates, trying to claw them.

Sister Antonia, the Indian nun in charge of administration, says it is not true — as one account has it — that Baloo used to shamble around on all fours. He was always able to walk like a normal child. But this is not thought to reject the wild boy theory, since bears frequently stand — and even jog — on their hind legs.

A recent visitor to the mission says that Baloo pawed him with gentle curiosity and waved his arms rather in the manner of a performing bear. He is hardly ever violent now.

The sisters have taught him to like human food. They had been warned that in the wild he stole chickens and ate them raw. Now Baloo seems content with boiled rice and lentil curry, the staple diet of the average Indian villager.

But speech eludes him. Baloo's growls and mewing sounds — to convey annoyance or pleasure — are uncanny, even animal like. The Sisters of Charity fear possible brain damage and have consulted specialists about a course in general rehabilitation, including speech therapy. They are waiting now for anthropologists to examine their strange charge.

AVERAGE AMERICAN OLDER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The median age of the U.S. population has grown a little older, creeping up to 29.4 for the first time since 1960, the Census Bureau reported Wednesday.

One reason that the median age has increased is that the post Second World War baby boom generation is getting older.

The number of young adults — ages 25-34 — increased by eight million, or 31.8 per cent, betweeen 1970 and 1977.

The report also shows that the preschool population, including children five and under, declined 11.2 per cent, or 1.9 million, between 1970 and 1977.

Red Economy Beats West

BERLIN (AP) — The Soviet Union and its East European allies missed most of their 1977 economic growth targets but still did better on a percentage basis than the industrial West, a West German study said today.

East Bloc countries increased their total economic production by five per cent last year, half a percentage point below the expansion rate of the year before but one point over last year's rate in the West, said the German Institute for Economic Research.

Romania, whose crash efforts to industrialize have produced rates as spectacular as 11 per cent in the past, showed a gain of nine per cent in 1977 and was the best performer of all, the government-supported research institute said.

Czechoslovakia was at the bottom with a growth rate of 4.5 per cent. Many analysts contend the Czech economy still suffers from purges of managerial talent that followed the 1968 Soviet invasion.

The Soviet Union ran half a point below its goal and most smaller Eastern European nations fell about one full point short, the study said.

"The determining factors were on the one hand external influences," the institute said, citing earthquakes in Romania and Bulgaria, poor weather in Poland, prices increases within the bloc and economic problems among Western trading partners.

"On the other hand, weaknesses and shortages within the systems made themselves noticeable again," the report said, citing goods whose quality and quantity fell below demand, shortages of raw materials and energy and "inadequate planning, preparation and carrying out of investments."

Energy problems have become especially notable in Poland, the group said, where industrial production went up 8.5 per cent.

Slush Fund Row Rocks S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — After festering for months, a scandal complete with multimillion dollar slush funds, a top-secret overseas propaganda campaign and allegations of coverups has burst wide open in the South African government.

The mushrooming controversy has reached all the way to Prime Minister John Vorster and could destroy the political career of his heir apparent, Information and Plural Relations (race relations) Minister Connie Mulder.

Vorster said a secret information fund was established in 1972 to assist the Department of Information "in a delicate and unconventional way in combatting the total onslaught" against South Africa.

At issue are allegations that Information Secretary Eschel Rhoodie, Mulder's debonair top aide, and other senior information officials used the fund for extravagant and unauthorized spending at home and abroad.

Reports of lavish junkets to the Seychelles Islands and elsewhere, unauthorized publications and shady payments have dominated newspapers for months. Most of the reports have been based on leaks from an official audit of the Information Ministry by the auditor-general.

Earlier this week, Vorster took full responsibility for the secret operation. He said he had authorized both the official audit and a hitherto undisclosed secret probe into the Information Ministry's spending.

Vorster also declared that "the effectiveness of the department and its head. . . has been destroyed."

Mulder blasted leaks of the audit, saying: "There are certain matters which, in the interests of national security, must not see the light of day."

The scandal has shattered the carefully nurtured facade of unity in the Afrikaner-dominated, ruling National Party. The reports of secret probes, unreported funding and private deals have testified to sharp divisions and strong mistrusts among the top South African leaders.

The official feeling running throughout the debate is that South Africa's unpopularity abroad can be changed by a "public relations offensive" rather than by changing its discredited race policies.

Things Go Better — With Cheese?

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Coca-Cola Co. says it is building a plant in Russia to manufacture Samson, a high-protein drink made of cheese whey which it claims the government barred from U.S. schools because it would compete with milk.

Spokesman John White said Wednesday the drink is made from cheese whey, a liquid abstracted from cheese. He said it contains 2 per cent protein, whereas milk has about 3 ½ per cent protein.

White said in 1972 the firm tried to get Samson included in school lunch programs in the United States.

"A deputy assistant secretary of the Department of Agriculture said that public policy dictated that the government support the national dairy industry since milk was a proven nutritional food and plentiful," he said.

A spokesman for the Agriculture Department in Washington said, however, he could find no record of any such action.

They Try Prayer

MANILA (UPI) — Authorities today stepped up the evacuation of refugees from Mayon volcano's danger zone.

Army trucks were constantly on the move, picking up residents from the threatened area near the southwest slope of the 8,077-foot high volcano and transporting them to empty schoolhouses serving as temporary evacuation centers.

Reporters at the scene, 200 miles south of Manila, reported that refugees have been holding evening prayer meetings, hoping that heavy rains would not come and unleash the mass of molten lava halfway on the volcano's slopes down on their abandoned homes.

15-MILE POLLUTION

GREAT YARMOUTH (UPI) — Diving teams worked today on attaching a tow line to a section of a wrecked Greek oil tanker in an effort to move it out to sea and away from nearby beaches.

Oil from the tanker polluted a 15-mile stretch of coastline, but marine officials said high winds causing delay in towing the wreck out to sea may also wash away much of the crude.

Firebombs Protest Bus Fare Increase

BOGOTA (AP) — Police in four Colombian cities used tear gas and clubs to disperse crowds that attacked city buses with firebombs and rocks to protest a fare increase, authorities said today. At least 40 persons were reported injured.

The riots in the provincial cities of Cali, Neiva and Pie de Cuesta and in this capital of 4.5 million inhabitants broke out late Wednesday, the fourth consecutive day of disturbances around Colombia. In all, 250 persons have been arrested.

The protesters are incensed at last week's government decision to raise bus fares 12 per cent to an average of 15 cents. Analysts say the protests also reflect discontent over inflation — 29 per cent last year.

In Bogota's working class districts, groups of students and workers stopped buses at intersections Wednesday night, ordered passengers off and broke the vehicles' windows with rocks, police said. Some buses were set afire by firebombs.

Helmeted police holding metal shields, firing tear gas canisters and swinging clubs scattered the crowds. About 20 persons were reported hurt.

In Cali, Colombia's third-largest city, at least 20 persons were injured when police broke up crowds who were reported to have thrown 100 firebombs at passing buses.

This week's disturbances are the worst since last year, when a countrywide general strike Sept. 14 led to rioting that left 14 dead.

Now, a Fortress Airport

TOKYO (Reuter) — Japanese officials today announced plans to make Tokyo's new international airport a virtual impregnable fortress with armored cars and barricades backed by thousands of riot police.

The government has pledged that the $2.6-billion Narita airport will finally open on May 20, despite threats from left-wing extremists to wage an unlimited guerrilla war to have it scrapped.

About 14,000 riot police, some armed with pistols and rifles, will guard the airport next week and most entry gates will have barbed-wire barricades flanked by water cannon and armored cars, the airport authority said.

About 3,000 riot police guarded the airport today as workmen added final touches to make it possibly the world's most secure airport.

More than $13 million is being spent on double fencing and sinking steel plates into the ground around the perimeter to prevent radicals burrowing their way in.

Airport opponents supporting local farmers at Narita, 60 kilometers from Tokyo, have threatened to step up their offensive starting next Thursday.

At least five people have been killed and more than 8,500 injured in bloody fighting between riot police and radicals and farmers since 1966, when building started.

Candy Lobby Rallies

ATLANTA (AP) — Businessmen are organizing to stop a federal probe into television ads aimed at getting children to eat candy and sugary cereals, says the chairman of the U.S. Federal Trade Commission.

Michael Pertschuk says leaders in the broadcasting and advertising industries, as well as in the breakfast cereal industry, have joined forces against the FTC probe.

Pertschuk said the investigation came in response to growing expressions of concern from parents' groups, dental organizations and others.

Businessmen are trying to get Congress to cut off FTC funds, Pertschuk said.

"We have found a serious problem here in TV advertising for children and in the content of their diet," he said. "We just want to open up the rulemaking process to examine possible remedies from the most extreme to the very mild."

Plane Sale Over Hurdle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate foreign relations committee rejected by an 8-8 vote today a resolution to block President Carter's proposed sale of planes to three Middle East countries.

The vote was a victory for Carter's proposal to sell $5 billion in jets to Israel, Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

Congress can block the $5-billion sale of warplanes to Egypt, Israel and Saudi Arabia only if both the House of Representatives and Senate pass resolutions of disapproval.

Despite the committee disapproval of the resolution, the issue of the jets will reach the Senate floor, probably on Monday. The House international relations committee is scheduled to vote Tuesday on such a resolution.

The Senate committee split the vote after Carter gave assurances he would offer an additional 20 F-15s to Israel for delivery in 1983-84.

In a letter to Senator John Sparkman (Dem. Ala.), chairman of the committee, the president also said: "We will give sympathetic consideration to the request from Israel for additional combat aircraft" for delivery in subsequent years.

Now here – an affordable way to move up to radials.

ATLAS MK. IV
RADIAL

Many people would like to move up from conventional belted tires to the smoother ride and improved handling given by radial tires, but, our steel-belted Mark V was too much tire for the kind of driving they did.

So, we found a solution to the problem.

MK. IV: THE AFFORDABLE RADIAL

It's the Mark IV – a new radial in the Atlas line. Mark IV is built with 2 tough Polyester body plies and 2 glass belts. The Atlas Mark IV radial gives you better cornering, ride and safety than conventional belted tires – at a price that makes it easier for you to move up to radials.

That's why we call it the affordable radial.

SUGGESTED RETAIL PRICES* (two or more)

TIRE TYPE	FROM (each)	TO (each)
RADIAL MK. IV	42.25	55.15
RADIAL (Steel) MK. V	49.34	73.47
BELTED MK. II	33.95	50.69
BIAS MK. I	29.17	41.13

MK. V: "STEEL BELTED" RADIAL

It's the king of the Atlas line. If you're into heavy mileage, highway driving, trailer hauling, country road driving, the Mark V steel-belted radial is for you. It has all the great radial features. And the extra margin of excellence you expect from premium quality radials.

CHOOSE AN ATLAS RADIAL FOR THE KIND OF DRIVING YOU DO

Mark IV or Mark V – the name Atlas on a tire is your guarantee of quality. What kind of tires should your car have? For the answer, it pays to see your Esso dealer, compare prices and talk radial tires. He's got the choice you need to fit your kind of driving.

$129,000 Raised

The Salvation Army's Greater Victoria Red Shield campaign has raised $129,000 or 78 per cent of its objective.

"The response has been most encouraging after one week's appeal," said Harry Young, general campaign chairman. "The canvass of the business district is now under way and we are steadily moving towards the target of #180,000," he said.

Campaign director Capt. Stan Ratcliffe said volunteer canvassers received a ready reception during the residential blitz canvass on May 1.

"But it wasn't possible to canvass every one," he said, "so we urge donors who were not approached to mail their contributions or bring them in to the campaign office at 769 Pandora Avenue."

East to Get a Taste Of One-Cent Tea Bag

TORONTO (CP) — John Murchie, president of Murchie's Tea and Coffee Ltd. of Vancouver, has plans to introduce the one-cent bag of tea to Eastern Canada.

"Tea is the highest profit centre for food stores right now," Murchie said in an interview Wednesday.

He claims the large food retailers are reaping a 50-per-cent profit on the sale of generic, or no-name teas, and about 33 per cent to 40 per cent on brand names.

Murchie was in Toronto to promote his concept and to negotiate with Steinberg's Ltd. of Montreal and IGA Canada Ltd. of Toronto for distribution in Eastern Canada.

His concept originated about a month ago when the company began selling individual tea bags for one cent each at their stores in Vancouver and Victoria.

Even at the price, he claims his company earns a 25-per-cent profit.

Murchie's imports the tea from China for about 90 cents a pound. It is then blended with tea from Ceylon, which brings the cost to about $1 a pound.

The tea is bagged and packed. Murchie estimates his final cost is about $1.50 a pound. A one-pound package, containing 240 bags, thus sells for $2.40.

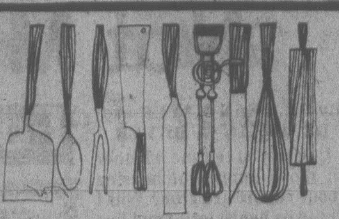
What is a 'Gourmet' Dish?



FOOD & nutrition

By PIERRE FRANEY

One of the most common questions put to anyone who gives serious thought to cooking — particularly if they work at it professionally — is what is a "gourmet" dish?

It's a question I've given an appreciable amount of thought to and discussed at some length with my colleagues. And, to my mind, a "gourmet" dish is difficult if not impossible to pigeonhole or categorize, except to say that it is any food prepared with a mixture of conscience, care and intelligence.

Thus, the recipe on this page. Who on earth, you might ask, would call the likes of spaghetti with meatballs a gourmet's delight? I would, provided the dish is made with "conscience, care and intelligence."

Boulettes de viande Marinara

(Pork meatballs in marinara sauce)

1½ pounds ground pork, beef or veal or a combination of meats
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
¼ cup grated parmesan cheese
½ cup bread crumbs
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
1 egg
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 cup marinara sauce (see recipe)
1 pound cooked spaghetti (see recipe)
Grated parmesan cheese.

1. In a mixing bowl, combine the pork, parsley, garlic, one-quarter-cup grated parmesan cheese, bread crumbs, salt, pepper and egg. Blend well and shape into 16 balls of equal size.

2. Heat the oil in a skillet large enough to hold the meatballs without touching. Cook until nicely browned all over at least 10 minutes.

3. Combine the meatballs with the marinara sauce and simmer 15 to 20 minutes. Serveon pasta; sprinkle with grated parmesan cheese.

Yield: four-six servings.

Marinara Sauce

4 cups canned Italian plum tomatoes
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 teaspoon finely chopped garlic
2 teaspoons dried oregano
3 tablespoons chopped parsley
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste.

1. Place the tomatoes in a saucepan and cook until reduced by half. Stir often to prevent sticking.

2. Heat the oil in another saucepan and add the garlic. Cook briefly, and add the tomatoes, oregano, parsley, salt and pepper to taste and blend.

Yield: About two cups.

Spagheti Cooked by a New Technique

Bring five quarts of water to a vigourous boil and add salt to taste. Add one pound of spaghetti. Stir well until water returns to the boil. Cook two minutes.

Remove the pot from the heat and cover first with a clean cloth, then with a lid. Let stand nine minutes without uncovering the pot. Drain and toss with one tablespoon butter or olive oil. Service with a sauce.

Yield: four-six servings.

Olives add a special touch to baked goods

Black Olive Bread

Fresh baked breads from the oven have always been popular as gifts to give from the heart or warm special treats for your own family.

The secret to a whole new world of hot breads lies in the addition of ripe olives. Baking brings out the subtle nut-like flavor of ripe olives. And, too, these breads add extra nourishment as well as extra flavor.

Whole Wheat Olive Muffins are a delicious combination of ripe olives, honey, buttermilk, and whole wheat flour. These are easy-to-make muffins which will turn any meal into something special — well worth the few minutes it takes to whip them up from scratch.

Olive Cheese Bread is a double quick loaf to make from yeast and biscuit mix. Cheese and ripe olives blend so well to flavor this easy batter bread — no kneading or shaping required — just stir together and let rise in the pan.

Olive-Cheese Pinwheels are made from packaged, refrigerated crescent rolls in not more than two or three minutes.

OLIVE-CHEESE BREAD

1 package active dry yeast
1¼ cups warm water
1 tablespoon sugar
4 cups packaged biscuit mix
⅔ cup pitted ripe olives, chopped
⅓ cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese

In mixer bowl dissolve yeast in warm water. Add sugar and half of biscuit mix. Beat 2 minutes on medium speed of electric mixer, scaping bowl and beaters frequently. Stir in remaining biscuit mix, ripe olives, and cheese; blend until smooth. Scrape batter from sides of bowl; cover bowl with cloth and let rise until doubled in size (about 45 minutes). Stir down batter by beating about 30 strokes. Spread batter evenly in greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. (Batter will be sticky). Cover pan with cloth and let rise again until batter reaches ½ inch from top of pan, about 50 minutes. Heat oven to 375 degrees F. Bake 40 to 50 minutes. Cool on wire rack. Makes 1 loaf.

WHOLE WHEAT-OLIVE MUFFINS

2 cups whole wheat flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg, slightly beaten
1¾ cups buttermilk
3 tablespoon honey
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
1 cup pitted ripe olives, chopped

Heat oven to 400 degrees F. Place paper baking cups in muffin pan. Combine dry ingredients, blending well. Combine egg, buttermilk, honey, and butter or margarine. Add to dry ingredients; stir just until moistened. Fold in olives. Spoon into paper baking cups. Bake 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 12 muffins.

OLIVE-CHEESE PINWHEELS

1 package refrigerated crescent rolls
1 cup pitted ripe olives, sliced
1 cup shredded Cheddar or Monterey Jack cheese

Heat oven to 375 degrees F. Separate crescent rolls. Sprinkle each with ripe olives and cheese. Roll up into crescents; place on ungreased baking sheet, point side down. Bake 10 minutes, or until light, golden grown. Serve hot. Makes 8 rolls.

Yogurt Nutritious, Not Miraculous

Food for Thought

By DR. JEAN MAYER and DR. JOHANNA DWYER

Q. Can you tell me whether all those thngs I'm hearing about yogurt are true? Will I really be healthier — and live longer?

A. No doubt the meteoric rise in the popularity of yogurt in recent years is linked to the sincere desire of many individuals in this country to follow what they consider a healthier diet. Plain yogurt is, indeed, an excellent food that contains virtually the same nutrients as the milk from which it was made. It is also a versatile food that can be used in many different ways. Low-fat yogurt is an excellent replacement for sour cream either "as is" on a baked potato or in casserole dishes. It can also form the base for a salad dressing, and with sliced fresh fruit it is a fine dessert or snack.

Beyond that, however, there is really little evidence that yogurt has any special health giving properties.

Some reports in medical literature do suggest that yogurt is useful in treating children with diarrhea, because it seems to restore normal bacteria to the intestine, and at the same time, it suppresses undesirable organisms. And because much of the lactose in yogurt has been converted to lactic acid, yogurt is particularly useful for individuals with lactose intolerance who cannot drink milk.

But the idea that yogurt will improve bacterial population of the intestine and possibly prolong your life simply doesn't stand up under scientific scrutiny. That theory, proposed around the turn of the century by Ilya Metchnikoff, a Nobel prize-winning biologist, suggested that aging results from toxins produced by harmful bacteria in the intestine and that the consumption of sour milk products suppresses the growth of these organisms.

The yogurt eaten by the long-lived Bulgarian peasants that Metchnikoff observed was cited in support of his theory. Ironically, however, lactobacillus bulgaricus, the bacteria in the yogurt, are not normal inhabitants of the intestine and cannot survive there. So while the bacterial culture is what makes yogurt what it is, there's no evidence that it will make you any healthier.

Q. I have recently become a lacto-ovo vegetarian. I bought a book on the subject that has charts showing which foods are the best sources of essential amino acids. Do I really need to be concerned about getting a good mix of amino acids now that I no longer eat animal flesh.

A. One of the commonest concerns expressed by individuals who become vegetarians is whether they will be getting enough protein. This concern is generally unwarranted.

To begin with, vegetarians like yourself who are giving up meat — but who continue to eat dairy products and eggs — are still getting high-quality proteins that provide the essential amino acids which are in short supply in vegetable foods alone. Even those vegetarians who also give up dairy products and eggs can generally get all the essential amino acids they need without special supplements.

Perhaps one of the main benefits of spending some time studying these charts is that they graphically illustrate that vegetarian diets can provide all the essential amino acids you need. In fact, to appreciate more fully how amino acids complement each other, you may enjoy analyzing some of your own menus.

You would no doubt be surprised to learn that in a luncheon of lentil soup with potatoes, cornbread, and a raw spinach and mushroom salad with sesame seeds the spinach you're eating nicely supplies amino acids lacking in the cornbread. Moreover, those other so-called "non-protein" foods — potatoes and mushrooms — actually contribute healthily to the over-all protein quality. Obviously, the key to getting all the amino acids you need lies in variety.

We hope, however, that you choose to remain a lacto-ovo vegetarian. The inclusion of milk and milk products (with the exception of butter and cream) in your meal plans provides important sources of calcium. Besides, fortified milk is our only certain dietary source of vitamin D.

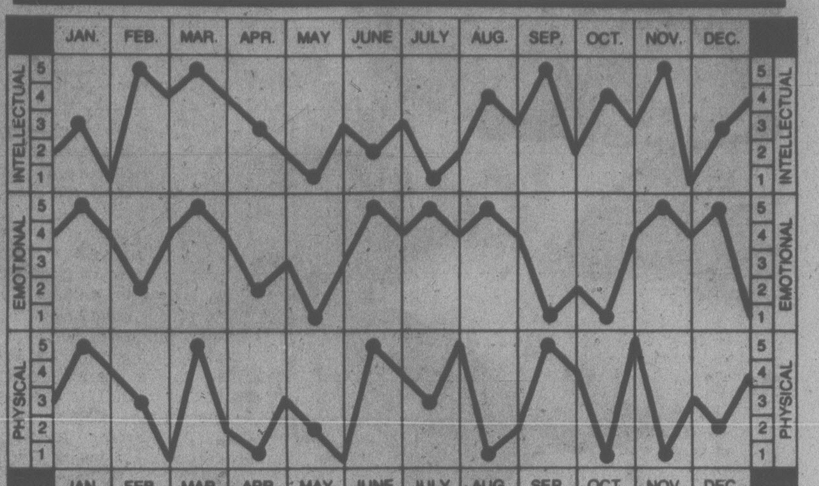
Eggs (which should be restricted in men and older women) are an excellent food for young women and children, for they contribute iron and vitamin A. In addition, eggs and milk products, like other animal foods, are sources of vitamin B-12, and the excellent protein they contribute is essential to the health of pregnant and lactating women and growing children. It is unwise to go through pregnancy and lactation or try to raise young children on a vegetarian regimen without any animal products.

Bio-dex

By Ken J. Michaels

Your computerized biorhythm

© Copyright 1977
Dist. by Toronto Sun Syndicate



HOW TO USE YOUR CHART:

Locate your month of birth. The dots on each graph highlight your biorhythm readouts. Check the scales on the left or right for your Intellectual, Emotional and Physical factors, from 1 to 5. Add these three numbers to obtain your Bio-dex. The Bio-dex is computed on average population age based on official Government statistics.

BIO-DEX READOUT:

0-5 Negative Cycle-	Don't take any chances today. When travelling by car be extra cautious.
6-10 Neutral Cycle-	Now is not the time to make important financial decisions. Wait for a better day.
11-15 Positive Cycle-	Others are watching and they'll like what they see. Speak up and move ahead.

Time magazine recently devoted over a full page to biorhythms. The article was well-written, and pointed out the pros and cons. It was interesting to read that Jackie Gleason checks his charts before an important engagement, and several major league football teams are now using biorhythm theory. Of course I had to agree with Time magazine that "biorhythms are more fun than astrology and not as messy as reading chicken entrails"!

NUTRITION BUYLINE

Cooked Is Better

QUESTION: I know that soybeans are a good source of vegetable protein. Are the bean sprouts from soybeans also a good source of protein?

ANSWER: About ½ cup of mature cooked soybeans contain 11 grams of vegetable protein, while ½ cup of raw bean sprouts contain 3 grams of vegetable protein. There is roughly 3 to 4 times as much protein in the cooked soybeans and therefore, they are the better source.

QUESTION: Our family likes pink grapefruit but someone told me they were not as nutritious as white grapefruit because they have color added to them.

ANSWER: Grapefruit are never artificially colored. The pink grapefruit is a relative newcomer to the citrus field and many people consider them sweeter than the white grapefruit. The pink grapefruit contains approximately fifty (50) times the amount of vitamin A in the white variety.

QUESTION: I've noticed quite a difference in the price range, up to 30¢ a pound between mild, medium and strong cheddar cheese. I know the taste is different, but is there a difference in the nutritive value?

ANSWER: The taste is the greatest difference between these cheeses. If you prefer or require the sharp flavor for a certain effect, then it is worth the extra cost. However, if that is not a consideration then buy the milder cheaper product because nutritionally, they are very similar.

IRISH MONKEY
(Savory French Toast
Courtesy Mrs. Alexander

2 Tbsp. butter
2 Tbsp. finely chopped onion
⅓ cup grated mild Cheddar cheese
1 egg
2 Tbsp. milk
2 or 3 shakes pepper
1 slice whole wheat bread.

In a heavy frying pan melt butter and add the onion and saute until limp but not brown. Stir it over medium-high heat all the time. Reduce heat, add cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Remove from heat.

Beat together the egg, milk and pepper. (No salt is needed for the cheese and butter supply plenty.)

Place slice of wholewheat bread over onion-cheese mixture, pour egg mixture over and return to medium-low heat. Using a spoon baste top of bread with the surplus egg mixture that is flowing around edges until egg softly sets.

Using a broad spatula loosen bottom and turn out bottom side up on warm plate. If any cheese crumbs remain in pan scrape them out and strew over top. A little chopped parsley sprinkled over adds to its attraction.

Tahitian Beef

2 cups cooked beef, cut in cubes or strips
1 19-oz. can pineapple chunks
¼ cup brown sugar
2 Tbsp. cornstarch
¼ cup vinegar
1 Tbsp. soya sauce
½ tsp. salt
¾ cup green pepper strips.

Drain pineapple. Mix sugar and cornstarch together in a saucepan or fry pan. Add pineapple juice, vinegar, soya sauce and salt. Cook and stir over low heat until thick. Add beef. Simmer 15 minutes. Add pineapple and green pepper 2-3 minutes before serving. Serves four.

Sorrel: An Underrated Delight

craig claiborne

There is a rule of thumb in the world of food that the more scarce a food may be, the more it is held in high esteem in the mind and appetite of Epicureans. It is certainly true in the case of truffles and foie gras and cocks-combs and caviar.

One notable exception is the leaf of the sorrel plant — that delicate, slightly tart and multipurposed herb also known as sour grass. If sorrel seems scarce, it is probably because of the public's lack of familiarity with its many virtues and uses. Sorrel prospers and grows like grass throughout the spring, summer and fall. It is also available at the stands of most self-respecting green-grocers. Only a few of its uses are outlined here. One of them, the spectacular cream soup known as Germiny; the other, that darling of la nouvelle cuisine, fresh salmon in sorrel sauce.

POTAGE GERMINY
(Cream of sorrel soup)

1 pound tender, fresh, unblemished sorrel leaves
¼ cup butter
½ cup chopped onion
3 cups fresh or canned chicken broth
2 large egg yolks
1 cup heavy cream
One-eighth teaspoon Tabasco sauce
Salt and freshly ground pepper.

1. Pick over and remove the tougher parts of the sorrel stems. Rinse the leaves and drain well. Place the leaves on a flat surface and cut them into fine shreds (chiffonade). There should be about five cups. Set aside.

2. Heat the butter in a large saucepan and add the onion. Cook, stirring often, until wilted. Add the sorrel and cook until wilted.

3. Add the broth and bring to the boil. Simmer briefly.

4. Beat the yolks and add the cream, stirring to blend. Add the yolk and cream mixture to the soup, stirring rapidly with a wire whisk. Bring just to the boil but do not boil. Add the Tabasco sauce, salt and pepper to taste. Serve piping hot or chill and serve very cold.

Yield: Six servings.

SAUMON A L'OSEILLE
(Salmon with sorrel sauce)

1¼ pounds fillets of salmon (skinned and boned)
7 teaspoons butter
2 tablespoons finely chopped shallots
¼ cup dry vermouth
½ cup dry white wine
1 cup fresh fish broth or clam broth
1 cup heavy cream
1 tablespoon flour
2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh sorrel
Salt and freshly ground pepper
Juice of half a lemon.

1. Place the salmon fillets on a flat surface and cut on the bias, against the grain, into eight slices of equal weight.

2. Place the slices between sheets of freezer paper and pound with a flat mallet to make thin "steaks" about the thickness of veal scaloppine.

3. Melt three teaspoons butter in a saucepan and add the shallots. Cook briefly and add the vermouth and wine. Cook until reduced by half and add the fish broth. Cook about five minutes and strain the liquid, using a fine sieve and pushing the solids with the back of a wooden spoon to extract their juices. Discard the solids.

4. Add the cream to the juices and simmer about five minutes.

5. Blend one teaspoon of butter with the flour and add this bit by bit to the sauce, stirring. Add the chopped sorrel, salt and pepper to taste and lemon juice.

6. Swirl in the remaining three teaspoons of butter. Do not boil, but keep hot while cooking the salmon.

7. Use a Teflon pan to cook the salmon. Do not add fat. Place the salmon pieces in the pan and cook until delicately golden on one side. Turn and cook on the other. Do not overcook or the salmon will have a dry texture.

8. Spoon equal portions of the sauce in the centre of eight hot plates. Place one piece of the cooked salmon in the centre of the sauce and serve.

Yield: Eight servings.

CREVETTES A L'OSEILLE
(Shrimp with sorrel)

1½ to 1¾ pounds raw shrimp, in the shell
1 pound fresh sorrel (see note)
5 tablespoons butter
One-third cup finely chopped onion
3 tablespoons finely chopped shallots
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup dry white wine
3 tablespoons tomato paste
2 cups heavy cream
Salt and freshly ground pepper
¼ cup cognac or bourbon
2 egg yolks
Toast rounds, optional (see note).

1. Peel and devein the shrimp. Rinse well and pat dry. Reserve the shrimp shells.

2. Pick over the sorrel; remove and discard any tough stems. Rinse well and pat dry. On a flat surface, cut the sorrel into fine shreds (chiffonade). Set aside.

3. Heat two tablespoons of butter in a small, deep skillet and add the shrimp shells, stirring. Cook briefly and add the onion and shallot. Cook about two minutes, stirring frequently, then sprinkle with flour, stirring. Add the wine and tomato paste, stirring until well blended. Cook about five minutes.

4. Add the cream and cook about five minutes over high heat. Strain through a sieve, pushing down to extract as much liquid as possible from the solids.

5. Heat one tablespoon butter in a small saucepan and add the sorrel. Cook, stirring, until just wilted.

6. Heat the remaining butter in a saucepan and add the shrimp. Sprinkle with salt and pepper to taste and cook briefly, stirring, just until the shrimp change color. Add the cognac and ignite it. When the flame dies down, stir in the cream sauce and sorrel. Bring to the boil and simmer about one minute.

7. Beat the yolks and add a little of the hot sauce, stirring constantly. Return the mixture to the sauce and stir without boiling. Remove from the heat immediately. Serve on toast rounds.

Yield: Six to eight servings.

Note: If sorrel is not available, substitute one tablespoon chopped fresh tarragon or dill, but do not cook the herbs before adding. Or sprinkle with choped chives before serving.

The best way to make toast rounds is to cut fresh white bread slices with a bread cutter. Brush with butter and bake in a 400-degree oven until toasted.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: It all started eight months ago when Ron and I started running around with Lynn and Dave. Dave and I would sit in the front and Lynn and Ron would sit in back. It was all in fun: We'd hold hands and hug and kiss once in a while. I sort of liked it at first, then I noticed Ron was overdoing it with Lynn.

I said I thought the whole idea was silly and suggested we get back with our own mates, but Ron and Lynn didn't want to quit. What do I do now. I am sure Lynn and Ron haven't gone any further than hugging and kissing, but I'm worried about where it might lead. I love my husband and I know he loves me. There are five preschool children between the two families. What should I do?

RON'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I don't have to tell you how foolish you were to have started this dangerous game — now the fat is in the fire. Tell Ron that if you are going to continue the friendship with Lynn and Dave, there will be no more switches. Then gradually see less and less of them, and more of other couples who are content to stick with the mates they married.

DEAR ABBY: Golf is a great sport, but why do so many people who play the game cheat?

I have had the same sad experience with both men and women. They lie through their teeth about their scores.

HONEST GOLFER

DEAR HONEST: People lie about their golf scores for the same reason they lie about anything else. They lack the self-confidence and security to tell the truth. And since golf is a game involving an exclusive and cofidential relationship between the player and the ball, the cheating player can usually get away with it.

DEAR ABBY: Please answer this soon as Mom and Dad are planning a trip and we kids will be alone.

We are both young adults. My parents have asked our married brother to "look in on us" while they're out of town. Does that give my brother the right to barge in whenever he feels like it without giving us any warning? Do you think he should have a key to our house just like he did when he lived here? Doesn't the fact that he is now married with a house of his own make him somewhat of an outsider here?

This is causing a terrible fight. We would like your opinion. We are two girls, 18 and 19.

US KIDS

DEAR KIDS: What "rights" your brother has, can (and should) be clearly defined by your parents. And to avoid any misunderstanding, your parents should tell you in your brother's presence exactly what "looking in on" entails.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BLEW MY TOP: You blew more than your top. You blew your chances. The test of a man's breeding is how he behaves in a quarrel.

UNIONS STALL VIA RAIL

MONTREAL (CP) — VIA president Frank Roberts says he has not given up on the June 1 deadline for the start of transcontinental passenger service despite delays in reaching a special agreement with four railway unions.

Roberts said Wednesday that the unions and Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways are keenly interested in beginning the new VIA service on time, but admitted it is a difficult job.

"The whole idea is to give as much protection as possible to the people involved."

The railways are to haul trains and provide engineers and conductors for the federal agency, but the four unions will account for most of the on-train staff, ticket agents and station employees to be hired directly by VIA.

RCMP Questioning Depresses Mountie

OTTAWA (CP) — RCMP Constable Richard Daigle testified Wednesday he was depressed and demoralized when questioned by superiors last summer about alleged breaches of conduct while with the RCMP security services G-4 unit in Montreal in the early 1970s.

"I was told I was in this for my own skin and I better tell the truth," Daigle, flushed and worried looking, told the McDonald royal commission into RCMP wrongdoing.

The 31-year-old Mountie, who joined the force in 1968, was called to Montreal last June 21 to answer questions about how he and Insp. Bernard Blier tried to recruit a man as an informant in 1971.

The attempt failed when the man insisted on leaving the car, driven by Daigle, 20 miles from Montreal and returning to the city on his own.

Daigle testified that Blier apparently restrained the man physically when he tried to get out of the car a few minutes earlier.

The man, after his car was boxed in by three unmarked RCMP cars in downtown Montreal, was initially under the impression he was being arrested for drug possession. Daigle said the man kept telling Blier in the back seat that he had no "pot," or marijuana.

Later he listened as Blier offered money if he would inform on associates. He refused.

Daigle said that after the momentary scuffle in the back seat, Daigle told the man he was free to leave when he clearly understood the offer.

When Daigle was asked whether the man was trying to "escape" in the scuffle, he replied that the man was trying to "leave."

He agreed with royal commissioner Donald Rickerd that the man wasn't free to leave if he had to stay until he understood the offer.

The man wasn't under arrest.

Daigle testified he was told he was either "a witness or a suspect" by the superiors who questioned him.

If he refused to answer questions, he would face a major service offence and possible dismissal from the RCMP.

The experience left him "quite depressed" and "quite demoralized."

Senators Grumbling

OTTAWA (CP) — Senators have suggested that the next time somebody wants to reform their august institution he or she should talk to the experts — the senators themselves.

A Progressive Conservative who has condemned the phoney intellectualism of his own party's reform proposal, has suggested Party Leader Joe Clark do that before his next journey "into the sunset of the Senate."

And Ray Perrault, government House leader whose own boss may be about to make some new proposals, said Wednesday a Senate committee should perhaps look at Senate reform.

The Conservative is Orville Phillips of Prince Edward Island. He said in a letter to Clark that the party's House of Provinces idea is "a vacation into cuckoo-land."

"I feel rather annoyed that all the phoney intellectualism attempted in the policy paper (on constitutional reform) ignores guarantees provided under the Bririth North America Act," he said.

Jacques Flynn, Conservative Senate Leader, deputy leader Allister Grossart and Liberal Eugene Forsey already have condemned the Conservative idea.

The matter came up Wednesday when Forsey (Ontario), Parliament Hill's best known constitutional expert, asked Perrault if any consideration was given by the government to a resolution of the Nova Scotia legislature.

That resolution called for an elected Senate with equal representation from all provinces and territories. Forsey said the idea deserved small consideration.

Perrault said there have been recent proposals, exotic and otherwise, some by people with no knowledge of the Senate or of Parliament.

It was important that the Senate examine ways of becoming more effective, Perrault said, proposing his committee idea for sometime in the indefinite future.

Dogs Died, Explorer Fined

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — A Japanese explorer who headed a successful expedition to the North Pole pleaded guilty Wednesday to charges laid following the suffocation deaths of more than 100 sled dogs Feb. 16.

Kaneshige Ikeda received the maximum fine of $500 when he appeared in magistrate's court. He was charged with wilful neglect causing injury to the dogs by failing to supply air to them.

The incident started when a Pacific Western Airlines plane left Thule, Greenland, with 170 sled dogs to be used in an expedition from Alert, N.W.T., to the North Pole. They were crated in a three-level insulated shed measuring eight feet by eight feet and about 18 feet long which was to be later used as a base camp for the explorers.

Evidence presented by the Crown indicated the only ventilation was a six-inch square hole in the roof. Ikeda said there were also two entrances.

A statement by loadmaster Ronnie Rudance of the department of flight operations for PWA said he nailed slats across one entrance rather than using the solid door because he noticed the pen had poor ventilation.

Shortly after the plane took off, Rudance said he saw the dogs struggling for air. He and the two handlers on board tried to punch holes in the shed with an axe but encountered styrofoam insulation.

They suggested the dogs be released, but after conferring with the pilot it was decided to keep the dogs penned for safety reasons.

The pilot, Captain G. A. Russell, said it was reported to him about 100 dogs died while the police report said 105. Ikeda said there were 116.

A pathological report on the carcass of one dog named "acute respiratory distress" as the cause of death.

Ikeda said: "I apologize for results of the incident and the results leading to people's feelings."

The expedition reached the North Pole April 27, after picking up new dogs Feb. 17, and returned to Resolute Bay.

MORE LEFT QUE. UNDER BOURASSA

QUEBEC (CP) — More people left Quebec in 1970 — the year Robert Bourassa's Liberal administration was elected to power — than in 1977, the first full year of Parti Quebecois government, says Rodrigue Tremblay, minister of industry and commerce.

Tremblay tabled a report Wednesday in the national assembly which he said indicated that 73,811 Quebecers left the province in 1970, compared with 72,972 in 1977.

The figures were taken from a Statistics Canada document, he said.

The 1970 figures indicate that 29,301 Quebecers left the province during and after October, the month in which a provincial minister was slain by terrorists and a British diplomat kidnapped in Montreal.

Retired RCAF Official Dies

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Air Vice-Marshall Frederick Carpenter, one of Canada's most distinguished retired military officials, died Wednesday at age 64.

Carpenter, former commandant of the National Defence College here and commanding officer of Trenton's Air Transport Command, had recently undergone open-heart surgery.

After more than 30 years service in the military, Carpenter, of nearby Seeleys Bay, retired in 1969.

He served in Ottawa in 1961 as chief of special studies and was appointed two years later as air officer commanding the Maritime Air Command. He was also deputy commander of the Maritime Command Atlantic.

Canada Bans Mystery Film

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has issued an order banning the entry into Canada of a film about the life of Jesus Christ although it is not sure of the origin or name of the movie or whether it actually exists, customs officials said Wednesday.

Revenue Minister Joe Guay told MPs and Senators in a memorandum that all customs officials have been advised to stop at border points the film "variously titled as The Many Faces of Jesus or The Three Faces of Jesus," so it can be examined for immoral or indecent content.

"It is alleged that this film contains material of an indecent or blasphemous nature," Guay said. Under the Customs Act, the government can seize and destroy immoral or indecent material.

Officials said the decision was made following a flood of complaints from the public to Guay, Justice Minister Ron Basford and John Roberts, state secretary responsible for cultural matters. About 500 persons have complained in personal and form letters and petitions.

They had few details about the film, no knowledge of whether anyone actually plans to bring it into Canada, no certainty of its country of origin and knew of no Canadian who has seen it. Added one official:

"We don't even know if the darn film exists. We have no proof of such a film being in existence."

Protests about the film appeared to be based on radio and press reports about the film and a spokesman who has sifted through the complaints said the typical letter condemned it because "Jesus plays the part of a homosexual, drunkard and fornicator."

Finnish scientists say:
Baldness can be halted.

LONDON — Two Finnish scientists say they have designed a scalp treatment that can halt baldness and even start new hair growing in many cases.

The scientists, who are putting the treatment on sale in the form of a solution, say that among volunteers who applied it to their scalp for 28 weeks, hair growth resumed in 60 per cent of the cases and hair loss decreased within four weeks.

The product, called Bioscal, contains a synthetic detergent, which clears away dead hair and other dirt clogging the follicles — the tiny sacs in which hair grows.

Another ingredient, a compound, then sets in motion a process which allegedly results in the growth of new hair.

Sci-Fi Vidphones Undergo First Test

CHICAGO (Reuter) — The possibility of an inexpensive video-telephone in every home was advanced Wednesday as the Bell System reported results of the first commercial test of a new lightwave communications technology.

The technology, which uses hair-thin glass fibres to carry electrical signals converted into light, was tested in a 2.4-kilometre cable installed underground in central Chicago one year ago.

"The system in Chicago performed even better than expected . . . surpassing even the most stringent performance objectives," Ira Jacobs, a Bell spokesman, told a news conference.

Charles Elmendorf of American Telephone and Telegraph (ATT), said the success of the trial "opens up the possibility of economic visual channels available to individuals for their private use."

He continued: "While cost-attractive services using this capacity are still in the future, 'lightguides' do have potential for making them economically attractive."

Thin cables comprised of up to 144 glass lightguides are designed to replace the bulky and expensive copper cables that wind underground in most of the world's big cities.

The test cable installed here, connecting a central Chicago office building and two telephone exchange centres, contained 24 lightguides capable of carrying as many as 7,000 telephone conversations at once.

The cable can transmit video and data signals as well as voice communications.

Elmendorf said the Chicago test is so successful that the Bell System is developing a full-scale lightwave communications system for installation in 1980.

The system uses tiny lasers to convert the sender's electrical signals into pulses of light which travel along the glass lightguides. At the receiver's end, devices similar to an electrical eye convert the light pulses back into electrical signals, and they are coverted to sound by conventional telephone apparatus.

THIS EXPERIMENT FELL FLAT ON ITS . . .

MONTREAL (CP) — Trying to disprove claims that Transcendental Meditation endows its practitioners wih powers of levitation is a costly — and often painful — experience.

Two members of the Quebec-based International Sivananda Yoga Centre, sitting in the cross-legged lotus position, hopped repeatedly off the ground at an acrobatic news conference Wednesday until the pain was more than one of them could bear.

"One last time," he moaned plaintively to reporters, as he landed with a thud on his tail bone.

The TM movement, which claims millions of followers around the world, has run ads in newspapers across North America claiming that its practitioners experience supernormal abilities which include "levitation," "invisibility" and even flying through the air "like Peter Pan."

For the non-believer, photographs of "successful" levitators often accompany the ads.

Mulch Can Help, at Times

In 1657 the word "mulch" made its appearance in the English language. It came from the old German word "molsch" meaning soft, or beginning to decay, as applied to overripe fruit.

The dictionary definition says a mulch, as used in gardening, is any soft, loose material, such as leaves, straw, or fine earth, spread on top of the ground to protect the roots of newly planted trees. As a verb, to protect with a mulch.

The key words in this definition are "any soft, loose material," indicating a material that allows air to penetrate to the soil while preventing a build-up of temperature that could damage roots, or discourage their formation.

Today, materials other than straw and leaves are considered good for mulching, some being thoroughly dampened before application as with peat moss, or naturally damp compost.

These damp materials can hardly be called soft and loose, nor do they permit air to reach the soil. Whereas eight iches of straw or five inches of dry leaves is recommended, we can use only one inch of these more compact materials.

Sawdust was highly recommended for mulching in the 1950s, even to covering the entire soil surface of the garden with a four-inch layer to prevent weed growth. While beneficial for weed control it proved to be detrimental in many other ways.

In a test at the Dominion Experimental Station at Saanichton eight fruit trees were planted, four maintained under clean cultivation, and four under a three-inch sawdust mulch. The unmulched trees made slow growth, the mulched trees phenominal growth.

From this it was assumed that orchardists would be well advised to mulch a new orchard to obtain larger trees and heavier crops.

In the fall of the second year the mulched trees were toppled in an October gale. Examination showed the roots had extended over the surface of the soil seeking air and warmth, and no attempt was made to provide anchor roots.

In other tests of mulching against clean cultivation, soil temperatures at the four-inch level were checked three times a day, 7:30 a.m., noon, and 5 p.m., throughout the growing season.

During early spring and late fall the soil was one degree warmer under the mulch than under bare soil. During the summer it was 3 degs. cooler at 7:30 a.m., 4 degs. cooler at noon, and 8 degs. cooler at 5 p.m.

The highest soil temperatures at the 4-inch level were on the check plots which had manure and compost incorporated at planting time, the open texture of the soil permitting the warm air to penetrate.

These tests show that a light open mulch can be beneficial under some conditions and with certain kinds of plants needing a fairly cool root run. A mulch of heavy material can be detrimental to root action, and can delay growth, fruit production, and fruit ripening on warm soil crops such as tomatoes and squash. All types of mulching material should be loosened after rain or watering to prevent compaction and exclusion of air from the soil.

To use mulches effectively in the home garden, the gardener must know the plants being grown and their preferences for soil temperature and moisture, know also the micro-climates of the garden to ensure the best placement of the plants, and understand the purpose of mulches and the effects they can produce.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD
CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room etc., for rent, or property for sale: start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Friday; 8:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

Spending Warning Given Universities

The Universities Council of B.C. has awarded an operating grant of $34.16 million to the University of Victoria for the 1978-1979 academic year.

The amount, up $2.2 million from last year, is part of more than $200 million that will be divided among the province's three universities.

Because of declining enrolment in B.C. schools, the council cautioned against any university move to add programs and increase enrolment at all costs.

"It may indeed be more appropriate, in a time of such limited growth, for each university to make a searching appraisal of the services and programs which have developed over the past decade and half of unprecedented growth."

The University of B.C gets the largest portion of this year's grant, $122.29 million, an increase of $11 million over last year. Simon Fraser receives $44.13 in operating funds this year, up from $41.23 million in 1977.

In its report, the council said UBC hasn't been getting its fair share of the operating grant increases in the past and the 1978 allocation to UBC is an attempt to correct the problem.

The grants are intended to provided financial support for teaching, research and community services.

UBC was criticized in the council's report for concentrating on academic staff and neglecting other areas such as library resources, plant and equipment maintenance and other non-salary items.

The report said the council will watch to see how UBC uses this year's funding.

Funds allocated for new and emerging programs dropped this year at all three universities.

At UVic, the amount fell from $985,000 last year to $82,000; UBC will get $202,000, a decrease from $307,000 and Simon Fraser has been allocated $142,000 in new program funding down from $488,000 last year.

The council plans to develop an over-all tuition fee policy with the aid of the universities, other institutions and the provincial government.

"A state of uncertainty over fee rates makes it difficult for students and institutions alike to carry out financial planning," the report states.

It recommends universities consider raising fees in proportion to the percentage increase in the provincial operating grant.

MORO TRIBUTE UNITES MLAs

The B.C. legislature has added its sympathy to the long list of tributes from around the world for former Italian premier Aldo Moro.

In a rare moment of solemn unanimity, MLAs supported a motion from NDP house leader Bill King (Revelstoke-Slocan) to convey profound sympathy to terrorist victim Moro's family and the Italian government.

Government House leader and Attorney-General Garde Gardom said such acts of terrorism seem to have gained a degree of criminal popularity in the world, but the acts must be condemned by every democratic society.

Liberal leader Gordon Gibson said people die every day in the course of their duties, but some individuals die particularly in the cause of civilization.

Conservative leader Vic Stephens added his support to the motion saying the Italian government showed great courage in refusing to negotiate with the terrorists.

Flags at the legislature have been at half mast since Tuesday.

Second Travel Agency In Bankruptcy

VANCOUVER (CP) — A second Vancouver area travel agency has gone out of business in less than two weeks as the failure of Consumer Holidays at the end of April toppled West Wind Travel Ltd. into bankruptcy.

However, it will be the airlines that will stand the loss—estimated at $54,000—not the travellers, Alec Burden, provincial registrar of travel services, said Wednesday.

Bankruptcy trustee Craig Bushell said Consumer owes and cannot pay $54,000 to West Wind thus forcing West Wind into bankruptcy.

Consumer is owned by brothers Rudy and Alfred Kobbeltvedt, who also own half of West Wind. The other half of West Wind is owned by Paul Reitsma.

Burden said he suspended West Wind's licence last week before the bankruptcy was declared.

When Consumer suspended operations, about 500 British Columbia residents were affected but most of them are rebooking their holidays at no loss to themselves, said George Tietjen, president of the Association of Travel Agents of B.C.

As all but a handful booked after Feb. 21, their losses will be made good by a travel assurance fund which came into force on that date.

Claims against the fund by Consumer clients will total about $50,000 Burden said.

The fund contains about $210,000.

Singer Jailed

VIENNA (Reuter) — Czechoslovak appeal court judges have increased to 18 months from eight a prison sentence imposed on a dissident popular music performer for criticizing the state. Ivan Jirous, leader of the underground Plastic People of the Universe, originally was sentenced last month. Jirous was one of four members of the pop group jailed two years ago after a demonstration at a concert.

Nitinat Lakes Park Price Set Too High?

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff

The federal government won't be able to include the three Nitinat Lakes in Pacific Rim National Park if the price is too high, the regional director of Parks Canada said Wednesday.

William Turnbull was replying to a request by the Western Chapter of the Sierra Club that the federal and provincial governments get on with adding the Nitinat lakes and West Coast Trail to the park.

Turnbull said Parks Canada is waiting for the provincial government to submit the final cost of buying out companies with timber cutting rights around the lakes and on the trail between Bamfield and Port Renfrew.

The costs are expected soon from the forests ministry, according to Robert Ahrens, deputy minister of conservation and recreation.

Turnbull said as soon as the price is submitted to Parks Canada, the provincial and federal governments will sit down and decide whether to buy out the timber rights around the lakes.

"But if the price is too high, it is unlikely the federal government will go for it," Turnbull said.

Sierra Club spokesman Bob Nixon said the B.C. government, if it wants to, is in a position to sabotage the plan to include the trail and the lakes in the park.

"It is quite obvious that if the logging companies, indirectly supported by the forests ministry, don't want the trail and lakes in the park all they have to do is put a high price tag on the timber rights," he said.

"The federal government will have no alternative but to refuse and the matter will sit right there.

"They will dicker and dicker and prices will continue to rise and the matter will never be resolved."

Nixon said whenever timber rights are exchanged or extinquished, he said it has been the practice of the forests ministry to ask the companies what price they want for their cutting rights.

"It is the logging companies who set the price. The B.C. Forest Service has always been indifferent to public interests or insensitive to the wishes of the people of the province."

"Every year for five years the provincial government has told us the trail and lakes would be included in the park," he said.

"Forests Minister Tom Waterland has assured us this would be so but has done nothing yet to carry out his promise."

Canadian Content Stressed

Greater Canadian content in B.C. schools, establishment of a provincial ministry of multiculturalism and the appointment of a new Human Rights Commission are among recommendations made to the provincial government by the Inter-Cultural Association of Greater Victoria.

Association coordinator Lydia Kasianchuk sent a total of nine resolutions — arising from a two-day workshop — to three cabinet ministers Wednesday.

She said that participants in the workshop agreed that the most pressing matter was to encourage the government to immediately appoint a new Human Rights Commission.

The commission lapsed more than five months ago.

In a letter to Labor Minister Allan Williams the intercultural association urged the minister to make the commission a priority item.

In an interview Kasianchuk said that the association did not wish to pressure the government over the matter, but simply wished to express its concern.

"I think it's important not to hammer these people (cabinet ministers)," she said. "I know that they're really over-loaded . . . but it seems that a new commission doesn't have a high priority, and it should."

The association also wrote to Education Minister Pat McGeer, listing five changes they'd like to see in B.C.schools.

The resolutions were all aimed at placing a greater emphasis on Canadian culture.

Sealed tenders, clearly marked "Construction of Kingcome Crescent" will be received by the Village of Port McNeill at the Municipal Offices on Hemlock Street. (Postal Adress, P.O. Box 728) Port McNeill, B.C., up to 4:00 P.M. (Pacific Daylight Time) on Tuesday, May 23rd, 1978, and will be opened in public at that time and date.

The work consists of the construction of approximately 1,030 feet of gravel road, 1,800 feet of 6-inch and 8-inch water main, 465 feet of 6-inch sewer and 125 feet of 24-inch drain, complete with appurtenances.

Contract documents, drawings and all other documents may be seen at the office of the Village of Port McNeill as above or at the office of the Consulting Engineers, John Motherwell and Associates Engineering Ltd., 2563 Macdonald Drive, Victoria, B.C. Copies may be obtained on payment of $25.00 for each copy required, which sum should be made payable to the Consultant and will be returned on their return in good condition with 30 days after the date for receipt of tenders.

The Village reserves the right to waive informalities in, or reject any and all tenders, or accept the tender deemed most favourable to the interests of the Village.

Robert J. Smith,
Village Clerk.

City Union Opposes Employers' Council

Victoria outside workers today called on council members to take the city out of the B.C. Council of Public Sector Employers.

Jim Walker, president of the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE), said Wednesday his organization has started a province-wide campaign to dump the employers' council.

That campaign arrived in Victoria today with pamphlets being distributed to all aldermen.

The pamphlets state that the employers' council, which has been set up by the provincial government, will tell local employers how they must act and long-standing relationships will be destroyed.

They warn municipal politicians will have their hands tied by bureaucrats, local control will disappear and citizens rights to influence political thinking will be cut off.

Walker said the union's biggest objection is that aldermen will become answerable to the employers council, during contract negotiations, and not to the voters.

"On top of that," says Walker, "it's a waste of money because the city of Victoria already pays $35,000 a year to the Greater Victoria Labor Relations Association and then there'll be another $3,000 or so that they'll have to pay to the employers' council."

Women In Blue For Battle

VANCOUVER (CP) — Criminals beware! The women in police uniforms are just as prepared as their male counterparts to do battle in getting their man.

Constable Fiona Weller received a black eye in a scrap after she and her partner, Constable David Popil, collared a suspected purse snatcher who was running down a West End street.

Deputy Police Chief Tom Dixon said he wasn't surprised that a female constable would get physically involved during an arrest: "That is what is expected, they are police constables in every sense of the word."

Charged in provincial court Wednesday with robbery and assault was Robert Daniel Young, 24, of Vancouver.

Region Objects To Islands Trust

The Capital Regional District Wednesday endorsed a brief by seven regional districts which says land planning for the Gulf Islands should be taken away from the Islands Trust and returned to the region.

The brief will be presented to the provincially-appointed regional district review committee later this month.

Noting Salt Spring Islanders had voted overwhelmingly in November to have the Islands Trust handle land planning and zoning for the island, Central Saanich director Dave Hill questioned the philosophy of the brief.

Salt Spring Island director James Bryce said he thought the result of the referendum reflected the fact any land planning and zoning authority becomes unpopular.

Regional board chairman Jim Campbell said the problem is division of jurisdiction over island affairs.

Granny Takes Jail Over Fine

GEORGETOWN, Ohio — A 70-year-old grandmother has decided to go to jail for two days rather than pay a $38 fine she believes is unjust.

Milda Wilburn, who has 10 children, 28 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren, is upset because the local mayor's court ordered her to pay a $38 fine because her 15-year old granddaughter was cited for violating this southwestern Ohio community's 9 p.m. curfew by two hours last Friday.

"Yes I've got $38, but I'm not about to pay it," Mrs. Wilburn said Wednesday. "My money is better spent on groceries than something like this."

Mrs. Wilburn, who is widowed and is guardian to her granddaughter, Shirley Marie, because the girl's parents are separated, complained her granddaughter was the only one of several curfew violators cited by police.

Mrs. Wilburn said she also decided not to pay the fine because of the way Mayor Joseph Rose treated her.

"He treated me like I was a criminal," she said. "I've never been in jail a day in my life. If that mayor had been a little nicer to me, I probably would have paid it. But he was stinky to me. Why, I wouldn't give him air if I had him in a jug. Well, I might, but you know what I mean."

When Mrs. Wilburn refused to pay the fine, she was ordered to spend two days in jail.

Parents Told Son He Had Leukemia

MARINA, Calif. — Warrants charging grand theft and cruelty to a child were issued Wednesday for the arrest of a man and his wife who were showered with public sympathy —and cash —after they reported their nine-year-old son was dying of leukemia, police reported.

Police Sgt. George Simon said tests conducted last week by Monterey County health officials disclosed that the boy, Ronnie Weltz, does not have the feared blood cancer.

Simon said Ronnie "apparently believed he had leukemia and was going to die."

Authorities said the parents — Jim Weltz, 43, and his wife Frances, 31 — provided a list of doctors they said had treated their son. But Simon said a check showed the doctors either do not exist or have never treated the child.

"It was found that Ronnie had not been seen by a doctor for over two years and he has received no medical treatment during that time," Simon said.

Police said the parents were not home in this Monterey peninsula community when they attempted to serve the warrants Wednesday.

In an interview with the Monterey Peninsula-Herald last October, the parents said Ronnie was confined to a wheelchair, could sleep only two hours every 24 because of pain and had leukemia since he was two years old.

The local American Legion post launched a fund-raising campaign to help the family and donated a wheel chair and food to the family. Police said they do not know how much was donated, and they have asked persons who contributed to contact them.

Tired Teacher Fired

JUNEAU — The local school board has upheld the firing of a teacher who was late for school 20 times in the last year because he has trouble waking up.

But social studies teacher Tom Carpenter, who claims he has a sleeping disorder that prevents him from hearing his seven alarms, vowed to fight the board's decision in court.

"I think I've got a good case," Carpenter said. "I've tried going to bed earlier and different hours. It doesn't seem to matter. Sometimes I wake up early and sometimes late."

PUBLIC NOTICE

Ottawa, May 1, 1978

BRITISH COLUMBIA TELEPHONE COMPANY ORDINARY SHARES ISSUE

The Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission has received an application from British Columbia Telephone Company (B.C. Tel) for approval of the amount, terms and conditions of the issue, sale or other disposition of ordinary shares of its capital stock, not exceeding an aggregate amount of seventy million dollars ($70,000,000) without par value.

The applicant has stated that it is necessary to issue capital stock at this time, rather than obtain additional debt financing, in order to maintain an appropriate and prudent corporate financial debt to equity ratio.

The application and accompanying documents may be examined at the following locations:

Intervention: Any person interested in an application to which he is not a party may intervene.

An intervener shall mail or deliver to the Secretary of the Commission a written statement describing his interest and containing his approval of the application, his opposition thereto, his suggested modification thereof, or any other pertinent comment thereon, together with any documents that may be useful in explaining or supporting the intervention, and he shall also serve a copy of the intervention, and documents, personally or by registered mail, upon the applicant at the office of Mr. R.J. Bouwman, Secretary, B.C. Tel, 3777 Kingsway, Burnaby, B.C., V5H 3Z7. All interventions concerning this matter must be received by the Commission and by the applicant on or before May 26, 1978. The applicant shall reply to all interventions, and shall serve a copy of its reply on the intervener and the Commission on or before May 31, 1978. In this case, documents must be actually received on the specified dates, not merely posted on those dates.

Procedures to be followed:

Depending upon the nature of the comments received up to the deadline for interventions the Commission will determine whether or not a public hearing will be held to deal with the application.

If, in the Commission's view, there are no serious problems requiring further inquiry, the Commission would propose to deal with the matter without a public hearing, rendering a decision approving the application "in principle" on June 1, 1978. Subsequently on June 2, it is anticipated that the applicant will provide to the Commission the exact price, size and other terms and conditions of the issue. Provided the terms of the issue do not depart from those set out in the application, final approval would then be granted on June 2.

Public Hearing:

If a public hearing is to be held on this matter, it will take place at a time and location to be specified by the Commission.

Those who express an interest in this application will be notified regarding the decision concerning a public hearing.

Levesque Urged B.C. to Secede

Former premier W. A. C. Bennett said Wednesday that Quebec Premier Rene Levesque once suggested that B.C. lead the way out of Canada, and that he would follow.

"Levesque said to me in Ottawa: 'you are getting 10 times worse treatment in Canada than Quebec, you have no equalization payments, you pay them,' " Bennett said in an interview.

" 'The freight rates are against you, tariffs are against you, all government pensions are against you — you leave first, and show me the way.' "

Bennett said he replied that B.C. under his leadership would never leave Canada.

The former premier accused Senator Eugene Forsey of not understanding what makes Canada tick.

Forsey has compared Levesque to Bennett and former Newfoundland premier Joey Smallwood, saying that they had put the interests of their own provinces above national unity.

"He never did understand what made Canada tick," Bennett said.

BAT Van Use Defended

Attorney-General Garde Gardom said Wednesday BAT mobiles are doing their job reducing the number of highway deaths caused by the drinking driver.

He said they can't be on the road all the time, but the Breath Analysis Test mobile vans have been a highly significant factor in the Counterattack program and to the best of his knowledge they are being employed efficiently and effectively.

He admitted, however, in certain areas they are not being utilized constantly. Part of the problem, he said, is that officers have to be pulled off the vans to attend serious crimes.

Gardom was responding to a question in the legislature from former attorney-general Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East) who had asked Gardom when he was going to get the bugs out of the BAT mobile program.

Tourist List Protected

Travel Minister Grace McCarthy said Wednesday the provincial tourism department does not make its mailing lists available to other governments, including the Canadian Government Office of Tourism.

McCarthy was asked in the house Monday if such lists were made available because somehow federal tourism officials were sending literature to regular B.C. visitors in an effort to persuade them to visit Quebec instead.

She said she is curious to know how the situation arose but since the information did not come from her ministry, there isn't much action she can take.

Bob Skelly, (NDP—Alberni) said Monday a northern fishing camp operator told him one of his regular visitors from Virginia was being mailed letters inviting him to visit Quebec.

TORIES BOO DECISION

No Election: PM

OTTAWA (CP) — There will not be a general federal election this summer, Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons today.

He said he has reached the conclusion that Parliament should continue to sit to find solutions to the country's problems, he added.

Replying to Progressive Conservative Leader Joe Clark, Trudeau said it is apparent that the Commons wants to deal with the concerns of the people. Issues could be dealt with in the House or in an election campaign. He had concluded that for now the House is the best place.

The announcement ends speculation that began as early as last fall when it was reported that the prime minister was considering calling a snap vote. He is said to have pondered the idea, then rejected it despite urgings from some advisers and Liberal MPs.

He suddenly began to cool election talk and it was learned that private Liberal polls showed his government might be in trouble with the voters.

An April Gallup Poll, released early last week, showed Liberals and Progressive Conservatives tied with 41 per cent of the decided vote. The New Democrats had 14 and 39 per cent of the voters were undecided.

There were boos from the opposition side of the House, mixed with cheers from the Liberals at the prime minister's announcement.

If Trudeau had announced an election it probably would have been for July 10.

Most observers feel that a deep summer election, one later than July 10 is not probable. Trudeau did not specify but has said before that if he did not call a summer election, the people should look to the fall or next spring.

His majority Liberal government was elected July 8, 1974, and can stay in office until next July.

Elections every four years are traditional, however, and it is considered dangerous for a prime minister to wait the full five years

B.C. Rape Relief Centres Urged

By MARK HUME
Times Staff

A comprehensive study of rape in B.C. commissioned by the attorney-general's department will recommend the establishment of a province-wide system of facilities to aid and counsel victims of sexual attack.

Nancy Goldsberry, under contract to the Justice Development Commission, says in the first draft of a 113-page report there should be at least seven centres in the province, with two on Vancouver Island.

In the report, obtained by the Times, Goldsberry says the Coalition of B.C. Rape Centres — which already runs four offices, including one in Victoria — should coordinate the program.

She endorses the Rape Relief Centres as the best way to serve the interests of victims.

Goldsberry says neither the ministries of health nor human resources are designed to respond to rape crisis situations or to provide the necessary extended counselling on a routine basis.

"It is certainly true that specific workers for these departments — public health nurses, social workers — are involved with individual women who have been raped. If there is a Rape Relief service available, though, these governmental staff persons will often . . . refer . . . a victim of rape assault to the rape relief centre . . .

"If anyone is an expert on rape, it is the Rape Relief worker who, because of sheer volumes of information at hand and practical experience, has the specialized knowledge and skills to assist a victim of the crime."

The report, which has been in the works for several months, was a missing element in recent deliberations at Victoria's City Hall which saw the centre here refused a request for $16,000 in funding.

Mayor Mike Young mentioned on several occasions he felt it would be wrong to support the Victoria Rape Relief Centre until the attorney-general's department had completed a review.

At a meeting of the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee Tuesday, in which the centre was denied funding for a second time, Young said he was still waiting to hear from the A-G's office.

Victoria Ald. Bill McElroy has attacked the provincial government for not taking over the role of the Victoria Rape Relief Centre and other similar operations in B.C.

Time is running out!

Time, that is, to get your entry in for the Fifth Annual Victoria Times Public Parks Tennis Tournament.

Entries have been coming in steadily for the popular summer-long tourney designed specially for those who play their tennis not in clubs but on public parks courts in the four Greater Victoria municipalities.

Remember, entry is free and prizes go to winners and runners-up in all five events — men's, women's, boys' and girls' singles, and mixed doubles. Just fill in the entry form on today's sports page and send it or bring it in to the Times.

Entries close at 5 p.m. next Thursday, May 18, so you have exactly one week left to get in on the fun.

Plainclothes Police The Rage in Saanich

If you're pulled over today by a Saanich police car and approached by a gun-toting, unshaven "civilian" — don't panic.

Union policemen in the municipality turned up for work in plainclothes today and decided to ignore recently adopted grooming regulations, such as shaving, to protest the breakdown of negotiations with the police board for a new contract.

Union spokesman Cpl. Phil Jamieson said today the decision to turn up for work in plainclothes and even grow beards — depending on individual taste — was made Wednesday after Mayor Mel Couvelier, chairman of the Saanich police board, told the union all offers made by the board had been withdrawn.

The protest will culminate in a strike vote next Thursday unless the union and police board are able to return to the bargaining table, Jamieson said.

Couvelier, in a strongly-worded letter to the union, threatened policemen with tough disciplinary action if any Police Act rules or regulations are broken in the dispute.

Couvelier said today he has asked the Labor Relations Board to intervene and appoint a special conciliation officer.

The board members were to meet this afternoon to review the situation.

Jamieson, who is president of the B.C. Federation of Peace Officers, said the union's 110-members are completely bewildered by the board's decision to withdraw its offer.

"We feel we've been treated most shabbily and most irresponsibily," he said. "We're united in this. We've had enough."

Negotiations, which have been going on for more than five months, reached an impasse early this month when the board rejected a union request for a cost-of-living adjustment for the first year of a two-year contract which would see wages rise a total of 10 per cent, four in the first year and six in the second.

The board had agreed to the pay raises and also the application of a COLA clause in the second year.

The union wanted the board to make an adjustment in the second year to compensate members if the cost of living raise during the first year of the contract exceeded four per cent.

But to do so would be illegal, Couvelier said, because an Anti-Inflation Board ruling has limited pay raises for the Saanich force to a maximum of four per cent for the year.

Couvelier said he suggested a one-year contract as a way around the problem but the union refused to consider it.

Midnight Ferry Furore

Union representatives met today with officials of the B.C. Ferry Corp. to discuss plans for a new midnight ferry run between Tsawwassen and Swartz Bay.

The meeting comes on the heels of a strongly-worded telegram to the government Wednesday from the B.C. Ferry and Marine Workers Union complaining that the employees were not consulted on the added service.

"We are extremely disturbed over your press announcement concerning midnight sailings of which we were previously unaware," the union said.

The telegram was sent to Recreation and Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf, the minister responsible for the Crown-owned ferry fleet.

"This will involve schedule and manning changes not discussed with the union as required in our collective agreement," said the union.

"Such action does not serve to improve the poor morale and labor relations climate on the ferries, which you have declared an intent to improve."

Union spokesman Peter Blight said today the employees are not considering blocking the midnight service but merely want to let Bawlf know they are unhappy at not being consulted.

Perhaps the minister did it in ignorance, Blight said.

Details of how the added service will fit in with existing manning and scheduling arrangements were discussed at today's meeting.

Bawlf said the ferry corporation will initiate a midnight service to Swartz Bay from Tsawwassen on a trial basis beginning June 30.

Brigade Strikes Again

ROME (UPI) — Terrorists in Milan fired four bullets into the legs of a director of an American bank today in the second Red Brigades-style "kneecapping" in the 24 hours since the discovery of former Premier Aldo Moro's body.

In Rome, police theorized that Moro's kidnappers may have called in "outside killers" to execute the 61-year-old politician and said they were particularly anxious to capture a man known in police circles as "the travelling salesman of death."

"It would take an exceptionally cold-blooded butcher to kill a man with whom you have lived for 55 days, " one detective said.

Meanwhile, Moro's widow fulfilled her husband's last, embittered wish — that politicians who "ratified my death sentence . . . stay away from my funeral" — and buried him in a private service.

He was buried in a small country village north of Rome. The funeral coincided with the resignation of Interior Minister Francesco Cossiga who took personal blame for the police failure to rescue Moro.

Former prime minister Amintore Fanfani, who dashed to the funeral from Parliament uninvited, was too late for the service and had the gates of the cemetry locked in his face.

Villagers carried the coffin and only her children, his two brothers and his political secretaries were at the graveside.

Tough Line Urged With U.S. Fishermen

Canada should be prepared to take bold, reciprocal action if the U.S. denies West Coast fishermen additional fishing rights as negotiated in a tentative agreement, a union spokesman said today.

Jack Nichol, president of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, said Canada should get tough with Americans fishing in Canadian waters.

In Ottawa, Fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc appeared Wednesday to agree with Nichol.

"We are not willing to forego anything," LeBlanc told reporters questioning him outside the Commons about reports a court case in the U.S. would be dropped if Canada agrees not to expand its salmon trolling in American waters.

A proposed 1978 Canada-U.S. fishing agreement allows B.C. salmon trollers access to more U.S. area. The agreement has yet to be ratified by the U.S. Congress.

On Wednesday, Scott Stafne, a spokesman for the Washington State Trollers Association, told the Senate commerce committee in Washington that his group has agreed to drop the court case that would have ended Canadian trolling activity in U.S. waters after Friday.

However, in exchange for that action, Stafne said he felt he could get sufficient support for disallowing Canadian fishermen into the expanded areas.

Nichol said B.C. fishermen are tired of the U.S. reneging on fishing agreements.

"I think the Canadian government has to be pressured into taking some bold action," he said.

"Otherwise we are just fooling ourselves . . . going through the motions of negotiating treaties that are then wiped out."

Nichol said if the U.S. does refuse Canadians access to the expanded areas then Canada should take reciprocal action.

He suggested U.S. salmon trollers could be prohibited entry into Canadian waters, shrimp draggers could be turfed out of the Tofino grounds or U.S. trawler activity could be curtailed.

Nichol said what is needed is a long-term agreement with the U.S. which corrects the current imbalance which he says favors the U.S. fishermen.

Senator Warren Magnuson (Dem. Wash.), chairman of the Senate commerce committee, maintained that Canadians are getting the best

GAS: $2.36 A GALLON

PARIS (UPI) — The price of gasoline in France will go up 10.7 percent on June 1 to $2.36 a gallon, the government announced Wednesday.

The previous price of high-octane gas was $2.12 a gallon.

Gas is now higher in France than in Italy, Belgium, Netherlands, West Germany or Britain.

MEG GIVING TONY FREEDOM TO WED

LONDON (Reuter) — Princess Margaret, sister of Queen Elizabeth, agreed to a divorce because her estranged husband, Lord Snowdon, wants to marry a film production assistant, Lucy Lindsay-Hogg, informed sources said today.

The couple separated two years ago after 16 years of marriage.

Lord Snowdon, 48, met Mrs. Lindsay-Hogg, 33, in London in 1974, but their relationship was kept secret until 1976.

She is the daughter of a wealthy Irish dress designer, and was divorced from film director Michael Lindsay-Hogg in 1971. She now works for a television company.

The princess has been confined to King Edward VII Hospital where she is being treated for suspected gastroenteritis. Doctors' tests showed she is also suffering from mild hepatitis.

The spokesman said the Princess, often criticized by members of parliament for not carrying her load of royal duties, had been advised by doctors not to resume official engagements for "about a month."

It's an Ad Boom for B.C. Gov't

The provincial government will spend $4.6 million more for publications and advertising during the current fiscal year than it did last year, says Lorne Nicolson (NDP—Nelson-Creston).

A list compiled by Nicolson, the opposition recreation and conservation critic, was circulated Tuesday. It shows that the government will spend a total of $12.54 million during the current fiscal year compared with $7.95 million budgeted for the same period in 1977-78 — an increase of 57.7 per cent.

The legislature is currently debating budgetary estimates totalling $4.3 billion — an increase from the $3.8 billion budgeted last year.

Nicolson said the increase in funding for publications and advertising means that the government is either preparing for an election or padding the figures to end the year with a surplus.

The list shows that the government has allocated $1 million for the Captain Cook bicentennial which was not in the 1977-78 budget.

Nicolson said the ministry of the provincial secretary and travel industry will spend $5.2 million compared with $3.5 million budgeted the previous year.

The government's estimates show that the ministry will spend $1.3 million on its quarterly publication Beautiful British Columbia, an increase of $100,000.

A total of $3.8 million has been allocated for tourist promotion, an increase from the $1.9 million budgeted the previous year.

Nicolson said the attorney-general's ministry will spend $434,122, an increase of 422 per cent compared with the $83,100 bugeted last year. Of this amount, $300,000 has been allocated for the Justice Development Commission.

Also showing increases are agriculture, consumer and corporate affairs, education, environment, finance, health, highways and public works, human resources, labor and municipal affairs and housing ministries.

Decreases came in the economic development, forests, mines and petroleum resources and recreation and conservation ministries.

NO ELECTION

OTTAWA (CP) — There will not be a general federal election this summer, Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons today.

He said he has reached the conclusion that Parliament should continue to sit to find solutions to the country's problems, he added.

Replying to Progressive Conservative Leader Joe Clark, Trudeau said it is apparent that the Commons wants to deal with the concerns of the people. Issues could be dealt with in the House or in an election campaign. He had concluded that for now the House is the best place.

The announcement ends speculation that began as early as last fall when it was reported that the prime minister was considering calling a snap vote. He is said to have pondered the idea, then rejected it despite urgings from some advisers and Liberal MPs.

He suddenly began to cool election talk and it was learned that private Liberal polls showed his government might be in trouble with the voters.

An April Gallup Poll, released early last week, showed Liberals and Progressive Conservatives tied with 41 per cent of the decided vote. The New Democrats had 14 and 39 per cent of the voters were undecided.

There were boos from the opposition side of the House, mixed with cheers from the Liberals at the prime minister's announcement.

If Trudeau had announced an election it probably would have been for July 10.

Most observers feel that a deep summer election, one later than July 10 is not probable. Trudeau did not specify but has said before that if he did not call a summer election, the people should look to the fall or next spring.

His majority Liberal government was elected July 8, 1974, and can stay in office until next July.

Elections every four years are traditional, however, and it is considered dangerous for a prime minister to wait the full five years

Plainclothes Police The Rage in Saanich

If you're pulled over today by a Saanich police car and approached by a gun-toting, unshaven "civilian" — don't panic.

Union policemen in the municipality turned up for work in plainclothes today and decided to ignore recently adopted grooming regulations, such as shaving, to protest the breakdown of negotiations with the police board for a new contract.

Union spokesman Cpl. Phil Jamieson said today the decision to turn up for work in plainclothes and even grow beards — depending on individual taste — was made Wednesday after Mayor Mel Couvelier, chairman of the Saanich police board, told the union all offers made by the board had been withdrawn.

The protest will culminate in a strike vote next Thursday unless the union and police board are able to return to the bargaining table, Jamieson said.

Couvelier, in a strongly-worded letter to the union, threatened policemen with tough disciplinary action if any Police Act rules or regulations are broken in the dispute.

Union representatives met today with officials of the B.C. Ferry Corp. to discuss plans for a new midnight ferry run between Tsawwassen and Swartz Bay.

The meeting comes on the heels of a strongly-worded telegram to the government Wednesday from the B.C. Ferry and Marine Workers Union complaining that the employees were not consulted on the added service.

"We are extremely disturbed over your press announcement concerning midnight sailings of which we were previously unaware," the union said.

By MARK HUME
Times Staff

A comprehensive study of rape in B.C. commissioned by the attorney-general's department will recommend the establishment of a province-wide system of facilities to aid and counsel victims of sexual attack.

Nancy Goldsberry, under contract to the Justice Development Commission, says in the first draft of a 113-page report there should be at least seven centres in the province, with two on Vancouver Island.

In the report, obtained by the Times, Goldsberry says the Coalition of B.C. Rape Centres — which already runs four offices, including one in Victoria — should coordinate the program.

She endorses the Rape Relief Centres as the best way to serve the interests of victims.

Goldsberry says neither the ministries of health nor human resources are designed to respond to rape crisis situations or to provide the necessary extended counselling on a routine basis.

"It is certainly true that specific workers for these departments — public health nurses, social workers — are involved with individual women who have been raped. If there is a Rape Relief service available, though, these governmental staff persons will often . . . refer . . . a victim of rape assault to the rape relief centre . . .

"If anyone is an expert on rape, it is the Rape Relief worker who, because of sheer volumes of information at hand and practical experience, has the specialized knowledge and skills to assist a victim of the crime."

The report, which has been in the works for several months, was a missing element in recent deliberations at Victoria's City Hall which saw the centre here refused a request for $16,000 in funding.

Mayor Mike Young mentioned on several occasions he felt it would be wrong to support the Victoria Rape Relief Centre until the attorney-general's department had completed a review.

At a meeting of the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee Tuesday, in which the centre was denied funding for a second time, Young said he was still waiting to hear from the A-G's office.

Victoria Ald. Bill McElroy has attacked the provincial government for not taking over the role of the Victoria Rape Relief Centre and other similar operations in B.C.
